ORDERED BY COURT

State License Suspension Halt Not Retroactive

HARRISBURG (AP) — Pennsylvania's decision to stop suspending motor licenses under the penalty point system will not apply to drivers who have already lost driving privileges.

"We have no plans of invalidating any present suspensions," said Michael Deckman, assistant attorney general assigned to the Pennsylvania Department of Transportation.

The Commonwealth temporarily stopped the suspensions because of an Oct. 26 ruling by a three judge federal court in Pittsburgh. The panel ruled the state could not suspend licenses of point violators without first granting hearings. Current law only provides limited judicial review of a suspension after someone's license is taken away.

As a result of the unanimous ruling, suspension notices are piling up daily at the department.

Points are assessed against drivers for specific violations. When a vehicle operator receives 11 points, his license is suspended for a specific period.

"We're not going to apply this retroactively," Deckman said. "If somebody under suspension wants to apply this to his case he would have to appeal to a court."

Department officials said about 8,800 Pennsylvania drivers currently are under suspension on the point system. The suspensions range from 15 days to a year, with the typical suspension 60 days.

The court decision did not apply to non-point suspensions, for such infractions as displaying fictitious licenses, operating a vehicle without the owner's consent and loaning a license to another driver.

Deckman said the transportation department currently is drawing up procedures to satisfy the court.

On Thursday, department officials said an extensive network of examiners for pre-suspension hearings could cost the state nearly $1 million a year. However, Deckman said the department may propose to the court a plan that would not require an extensive hearing network.

He noted the concurring opinion of U.S. District Judge Louis Rosenberg, a member of the three-judge panel, indicated the pre-suspension hearing could be limited to clerical errors—such as assessing the wrong number of points for a certain offense.

A previous court case prevents review of the facts once a driver is convicted in a traffic or magistrate's court.

If the court accepts the limited hearings, and drivers are informed of their narrow scope, many operators may not ask for such proceedings, Deckman said. If this theory works, he said, an extensive and expensive hearing system may not be needed.

Foreign Aid Funds Draw House Fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — House foes began organizing an effort Friday to sharply curb even temporary new foreign aid funds next week—and no one was sure how the House would vote.

Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan said he is "hopeful, encouraged and optimistic" that the House will pass the continuing resolution to keep foreign aid and other programs alive unchanged Tuesday—although House cuts are expected in a regular foreign aid bill later.

But some leaders including GOP Conference Chairman John B. Anderson of Illinois said a coalition of the House's large anti-foreign aid block and anti-war opponents of military aid for Indochina could endanger even the interim extension of foreign aid Tuesday.

House Appropriations Chairman George H. Mahon, D-Tex., is likely to argue that with both the Senate and House working on regular foreign aid bills next week there is little point in a House foreign aid fight on the continuing resolution.

The Senate is expected to begin floor action on two foreign aid bills totalling $2.3 billion Wednesday. Chairman Thomas E. Morgan, D-Pa., said the House Foreign Affairs Committee probably will put out a foreign aid bill for about $3 billion, 10 per cent below the House original $3.4-billion bill.

Senate GOP Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania said efforts will be made to raise the Senate bill back as nearly as possible to the $2.9-billion bill killed by the Senate a week ago. The State Department said Friday the Senate's $2.3-billion bill could force "drastic and in some respects even crippling" cuts in South Vietnam's ability to tie down North Vietnam forces and continued modernization of Korea's armed forces.

Spokesman Charles Bray Jr. declined to say the Senate cuts might adversely affect U.S. troop withdrawals from the war.

But he told newsmen the Senate military aid cut to $350 million for Indochina was below the $665 million needed for South Vietnam alone. And he said Cambodia needs a minimum $200 million to continue to tie down North Vietnamese forces as U.S. troops withdraw.

House foreign aid opponents had not selected a member to carry their fight against the assistance in the continuing resolution Tuesday but have already drafted two amendments.

The first would prohibit any new money for foreign aid, limiting the program to the $4.6 billion already in its pipeline until Congress decides whether to revive the program.

If that amendment is ruled out of order, the foreign aid opponents have another one to temporarily extend the program only to Dec. 1.

National Forge Union OKs Nov. 13 Strike Deadline

Members of the Independent Union of National Forge Employees have voted 632 to 17 to strike on November 13 if a new labor agreement is not reached prior to that date, according to Phil Mong, vice president of the union. This is the first time strike action has been taken against the Irvine company.

The 840 members of the union, all production workers, have been working under an interim agreement since the expiration of their three-year contract on August 31.

Mong said that the negotiating team for the union recognizes that no wage increases can be granted until guidelines are established or

High Court Could Bar Test Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court said Friday it will hold a one hour hearing Saturday morning to determine whether it will halt the underground nuclear blast on Amchitka Island later in the day.

A spokesman for the court said the hearing will begin at 9:30 a.m. EST and will be confined to whether the court will order a halt to the test pending a hearing on the test's merits.

The blast is scheduled to go off at 5 p.m. EST Saturday with a force 250 times greater than the atomic bomb dropped on Hiroshima 26 years ago. It would be held almost 6,000 feet underground on the remote island off the coast of Alaska.

The Justice Department said Solicitor General Irwin N. Griswold will argue its side before the court. The eight environmental groups protesting the proposed test will be represented by attorney David Side.

Asked if any justice dissented from the decision to warrant a hearing on the temporary injunction the court spoke

Asked if any justice dissented from the decision to grant a hearing on the temporary injunction the court spokesman said, "Not that I know of."

The environmental organizations seeking the halt also appealed to President Nixon to stop the planned explosion.

spokesman said the commission will be able to stop the countdown for the underground test "up until the instant of detonation" should the Supreme Court order a halt.

AEC officials kept an anxious eye on a storm 400 miles to the southwest of this rocky island 1,400 miles west of Anchorage. The storm cut visibility to less than three miles and buffeted some island facilities with gusts of more than 70 miles per hour.

But weather forecasters predicted the storm center would pass the island about midnight Friday (Bering Standard Time) and leave Amchitka under broken clouds with northwesterly winds over 30 miles an hour by zero hour.

AEC officials said such conditions would be satisfactory for detonation of the Cannikin nuclear warhead destined for the Spartan antiballistic missile system.

The weather is important, the AEC said, because of the visibility required to monitor the test both from the ground and from aircraft.

The AEC said it plans for the "worst possible conditions" and would need moderate weather in the event of an emergency. Technicians at the control center 23 miles from the nearly 6,000-foot deep shaft where Cannikin will be detonated rehearsed the scenario for the final minutes before electric signals are to be sent Saturday, setting off an explosion the AEC describes as less than the equivalent to five million tons of TNT.

A U.S. Coast Guard cutter and two Navy destroyers patrolled off the coast of Amchitka Friday. Navy and Air Force aircraft kept the area around the island under observation for aircraft or surface vessels.

A warning area extending 50 miles in all directions from Amchitka has been established.

Technicians at the air strip control tower packed away key instruments and electronic equipment to be unpacked after the blast so air traffic can resume on the island.

At the main camp, which will be unoccupied at zero hour, telephone receivers were taped down so they won't be thrown off the hook. Objects were removed from shelves, and anything that might be broken was packed away.

In the final hours, electricity and water will be shut off.

At ground zero, sealing of the Cannikin shaft was completed and engineers checked electrical circuits that will detonate the warhead and record its performance.

Instruments in the shaft with the device will measure its "output," primarily X-rays and neutron radiation. In the millionth of a second before the heat and pressure of the blast destroy the instruments, the data will be flashed to a row of trailers half a mile away.

The trailers are on still-like devices that will absorb the ground shaking and protect the delicate instruments.

Test officials also began a careful nose count of everyone on the island.

Cannikin won't be detonated Saturday until every person is accounted for.

Everyone will be at North Camp, 23 miles away behind a 1,200-foot-high range of rocky hills. They will watch the test on television monitors. Cannikin will be detonated from there.

LAIRD COMPLETES TOUR

Koreans Begin Vietnam Pullout

SAIGON (AP) — South Korea will begin withdrawing 10,000 troops next month in its first pullout from the Vietnam war, the South Vietnamese Foreign Ministry announced Saturday.

The troops are among 50,000 Koreans who have been operating in South Vietnam's central coastal provinces. The first ROK troops arrived in Vietnam in March 1965.

The ROK withdrawal was reported as U.S. Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird began his last day in Vietnam Saturday intent on learning how the South Vietnamese will be able to weather a speeded up withdrawal of American troops.

Informed sources said he has told the South Vietnamese the United States wants to get thousands of GIs home for Christmas.

The Koreans are the last of the five allies with troops in South Vietnam to begin withdrawals.

U.S. forces began pulling out in the summer of 1969. Australian and New Zealand troops started withdrawing their 8,000 troops earlier this year and are scheduled to be out of the country by Christmas. The 12,000-man Queen Cobra division of Thailand is also on its way out.

Laird's first stop Saturday was an ordnance depot on the outskirts of Saigon. He planned later to visit a major South Vietnamese headquarters at Bien Hoa, about 10 miles north of the capital.

He planned to leave Saigon for Washington Saturday afternoon following a three-day visit, his fourth to Vietnam.

Laird's three days of talks with U.S. and Vietnamese officials yielded no figures on the withdrawal schedule to be announced by President Nixon in mid-November. But some U.S. units are reported to have been notified already that their numbers would be halved in the next seven weeks.

Laird is to report to Nixon on Monday.

U.S. troop strength in Vietnam has been dropping at the rate of about 4,500 to 5,000 a week in recent weeks. Currently put at 198,700, it is expected to go to 175,000 by month's end. Sources say that by July it should be well below the 80,000 level of mid-1965 when the U.S. role in the war was mostly advisory.

Laird met Friday with top military and civilian officials in a 3½-hour session at Thieu's Independence Palace.

With Laird were U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker, Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam; Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Adm. John S. McCain, top U.S. commander in the Pacific.

Informants said Laird told the Vietnamese that Nixon understands their continuing need for economic aid and reassured them about prospects for getting it despite the Senate's rejection of a proposed foreign aid bill.

In Phnom Penh, the Cambodian government appealed to the U.S. Congress for special treatment as a nation "openly and savagely aggressed against by a foreign state."

Information Minister Long Boret said the government was "a little bit reassured" by statements in Saigon about U.S. aid by Laird.

Fighting in Cambodia dominated the battlefield reports. Associated Press correspondent Robin Mannoek reported from Phnom Penh that Cambodian relief troops had driven to within 500 yards of beleaguered Rumlong, a town on the northeastern front.

U.S. To Pay Turks Who Cease Opium Production

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin hammered out a pact with Turkish officials Friday under which the United States will help Turkey pay its opium farmers to grow another crop.

The amount of compensation the United States is to pay Turkey for the ban on opium poppy cultivation remains a closely held secret. The ban will start next year.

It appears both sides agreed to hide the figure for opposite reasons. Turkish officials believe it would seem too low to Turks. Americans, considering the present congressional mood on foreign aid, fear the figure would appear too high.

At Friday's meeting, Hardin and Turkish Agriculture Minister Orhan Dikmen put the final touches on programs which will be carried out with U.S. aid to substitute wheat oilseed and animal feed crops for poppies and to establish livestock, dairy and other farming in the opium-growing area.

Hardin leaves Saturday morning. Official said a statement will be issued but it will not give financial details.

Turkey's largest newspaper, Hurriyet, reported the United States will pay Turkey $40 million a year for four or five years.

The second largest paper, Gunaydin, under the headline "We sold out cheaply," said the United States was giving $15 million.

The influential daily Milliyet said Hardin turned down Turkish requests for $22 million a year for four years and is giving half of this. According to informed speculation, Milliyet's figure was closest to the truth.

House Attacks Busing Finances

WASHINGTON (AP) — Officials charged with carrying out school desegregation policy studied a package of House-passed anti-busing amendments Friday to see what effect they might have.

The amendments, adopted Thursday night, would prevent the government from spending federal funds or requiring a school district to spend its own funds for busing. They also would delay court-ordered busing plans until the appeals process is completed.

There was no mistaking the meaning of the amendments—the House wants federal busing to stop. But what they would do to existing laws and policies was unclear.

At the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, which has the major responsibility for carrying out school desegregation policy, officials said they need more time to study the impact of the amendments.

Their major concern is a double-barreled amendment put together by Reps. John M. Ashbrook, R-Ohio, and Edith Green, D-Ore., that was adopted 233 to 124.

Ashbrook proposed a blanket prohibition on the use of any federal funds for busing. Mrs. Green added the provision that HEW couldn't make the states spend their own money for busing either.

She said she wanted to stop what she reported was an arrangement between HEW and local school officials whereby the federal government promises to reimburse a local district if it spends its own money for busing.

"That's the height of hypocrisy," she said. "It seems to me if we're not going to spend federal funds we have no business making requirements for the expenditure of local funds."

Some congressmen said it appeared that HEW would be pretty well stripped of its power to enforce desegregation policy if the Ashbrook-Green amendment ever became law.

"Under the Supreme Court's decision in the Charlotte, N.C., case, busing to overcome racial isolation is now the law of the land," said Rep. Albert H. Quie.

Irish Woman Killed; British Officer Wounded

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — A young housewife was shot dead in Londonderry early Saturday and British troops battled snipers during a house-to-house search for terrorist gunmen.

The unnamed woman died only hours after a British army major was shot and seriously wounded in an ambush in Belfast as gunmen resumed urban guerrilla warfare that had been virtually halted by 24 hours of drenching rain.

Army and police spokesmen said they had no information how the woman died. Her body was brought from the Roman Catholic Creggan estate to a hospital.

An army spokesman said: "The troops were fired on by two gunmen and the fire was returned. But we had no reports of casualties. We have no information on how the woman died. We made no arrests in the search."

She was the 152nd person to die in Northern Ireland's two-year-old violence between Protestants and the Roman Catholic minority.

The British army officer, named as 34-year-old Michael Mealyer, was shot in his car in Belfast's Ardmore Park area.

OBITUARIES

ANNA MARIA ZERBEY

Anna Maria Zerbey, 84 of RD 1, Clarendon, died at 7:10 p.m. Friday in Warren General Hospital. She was born February 23, 1887 in Warren and had been a lifetime resident of the area.

She was a member of the First Lutheran Church and the Bethel Bible Class. She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. William (Roberta) Francis, Clarendon; six grandchildren and two great grandchildren. She was preceded in death by her husband R. Sherman Zerbey in 1947 and a son, Robert S. Zerbey in 1965.

Friends may call from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. Sunday at the Lutz-VerMilyea Funeral Home. Funeral services will be held there at 11 a.m. Monday, the Rev. Bailey D. Herrington officiating. Burial will be in Oakland Cemetery.

Unemployment Rate Falls; 79.8 Million Americans Working

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate dropped slightly to 5.8 per cent of the work force last month as the total number of working Americans hit a record 79.8 million, the government said Friday.

The total number of out-of-work jobseekers dropped by 270,000, mostly husbands and other adult men, to 4.6 million, the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said.

The jobless rate declined by 0.2 per cent from September's 6 per cent. Bureau Commissioner Geoffrey Moore called the drop "marginally significant" or less.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-

Busing

R-Minn., the GOP's education expert in the House. "With this amendment HEW would be precluded from enforcing that law."

On Capitol Hill, however, there were few who felt the amendments would go on the statute books. The House has taken tough stands on busing before only to have its efforts nullified by the Senate.

"I think something can be worked out in conference with the Senate," said Rep. Carl D. Perkins, D-Ky., chairman of the Education and Labor Committee, who will head the House conferees.

Perkins doesn't plan to go to conference until the week after next and with Congress hoping to adjourn in mid-December a settlement this year seems unlikely.

If that happens, the casualties besides the anti-busing amendments would be the five-year $22.5-billion higher education bill to which they are attached, and a $1.5-billion school desegregation bill that also was added as an amendment.

Wis., chairman of the Joint Economic Committee, said it was cause for "marginal encouragement" but showed no breakthrough.

It was the second monthly decline in a row. The rate was 6.1 per cent in August and 5.8 per cent in July. It has wavered from 6.2 per cent to 5.6 per cent.

The jobless rate for blue-collar workers and Vietnam era veterans dropped sharply, but the rate for blacks and other non-whites crept up to 10.7 per cent, highest since November of 1963. The rate for whites dropped from 5.4 to 5.3.

There was little change in the rates for women, teen-agers or white-collar workers.

The biggest job gains were in state and local government, retail and wholesale trade, service industries and manufacturing of transportation equipment, including autos.

Average weekly earnings for 71.4 million rank-and-file workers dropped two cents to $129.11.

Judge Allows Convicted Man Appeal Hearing

By BETTY RICE

A post conviction hearing was held Friday morning before Judge Robert L. Wolfe, the action resulting from a petition from Peter Stoddard, of Jackson st. ext., who is currently serving a one and a half to three year term at Rockview Penitentiary on an assault and battery charge.

Following testimony and summation, Judge Wolfe ruled that since, apparently, the defendant was not advised of his right to appeal within 30 days at the time of his sentencing, Stoddard be remanded to Warren County Jail. The defendant was also told that if he had sufficient funds, he was to hire an attorney to appear with him at the November 12 sentencing court. Should Stoddard be unable to afford legal counsel, the court will appoint an attorney.

Judge Wolfe indicated that at the November 12 appearance, the defendant will be advised of his right to appeal within the mandatory period of time. Stoddard was originally sentenced October 9, 1970. He was returned to Warren County Jail from Rockview for his hearing Friday.

Borough patrolman Robert G. Nearing, the arresting officer, testified as to the events leading up to Stoddard's arrest August 5, 1970. The incident occurred at the Kinzua Information Booth when, early in the evening, Stoddard allegedly stopped to talk to the young lady in charge, entered the work area of the booth, picked up a pair of scissors and cut the girl's hair. He also allegedly kissed her on the lips.

Nearing said the girl was frightened and made no attempt to scream or run but after the defendant laid the scissors down, she pushed him out of the booth, locked up in a hurry and ran to call police. The victim was able to provide a description and Stoddard was picked up at a local bar.

Nearing stated Stoddard was taken to the police station, advised of his constitutional rights and identified by the victim through the one-way mirror in the interrogation room. Nearing added that Stoddard was intoxicated but was coherent and appeared to understand what was being said to him. Admitted into evidence was a statement signed by the defendant to the effect that he had been told of his constitutional rights.

According to testimony, Stoddard admitted being at the booth, talking to the girl and picking up the scissors. He did not, however, admit to the kiss or cutting her hair. He also told police that "he didn't mean to hurt her."

Stoddard on the stand testified he remembered being in court for sentencing but was unable to recall appearing for arraignment or giving a statement to Nearing the evening of his arrest. He did however admit Friday to kissing the girl, picking up the scissors and saying "I'd like to have a lock of your hair."

District Attorney William Morgan asked the defendant about the circumstances of his petition for the post conviction hearing. Stoddard said he was coerced into it by other inmates at the penitentiary.

He said he was told he was sent to prison illegally and laughed at, and told the court he was "stupid and dumb enough to be talked into entering the petition...and should have stayed where he was." He stated he paid one inmate $6 to prepare the petition and $4.50 to another prisoner to type it for him.

Luvison said that three potential sites had been examined but that the Collins Pine property was the only one which could meet all the requirements of the Dept. of Education.

Striking Miners To Talk; Dock Strike In Mediation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Peace talks in the 36-day strike of 100,000 coal miners were scheduled to resume Monday in New York amid reports of a possible break in the contract deadlock, sources in the industry told the Associated Press Friday.

"What this apparently means is that we may be near something," a source said in West Virginia.

Meanwhile, federal mediation of an East and Gulf Coast dock strike also was slated to resume in New York on Tuesday. The walkout began Oct. 1, the same day as the soft coal strike, and a senate agriculture subcommittee heard testimony that farm exports are off $500 million since then.

Sources high in the soft coal industry said Labor Secretary James Hodgson had given both sides stern warnings to settle the wage and pension issues and end the strike. Besides the strikers, 20,000 railroad employees have been idled by the walkout.

Hodgson was said to have urged United Mine Workers president W. A. "Tony" Boyle to move the negotiations to New York, where the 125-man union wage and policy committee was scheduled to be quartered on a standby basis beginning Monday.

Earlier, West Virginia Gov. Arch A. Moore, Jr., forecast the possibility of a breakthrough in the soft coal deadlock within the "next 72 hours."

During the day, 20 striking miners picketed a UMW district office at Fairmont, W. Va., demanding strike benefit.

The testimony on farm export losses attributed to the strike by the AFL-CIO International Longshoremen's Association came from witnesses before the agriculture subcommittee in Washington.

One of them, Kenneth Frick, administrator of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation service, called the pier shutdowns "a major threat to our entire farm marketing system."

Negotiations have centered around ILA demands for extension of a current guaranteed annual income for 18,000 New York dock workers. Secret negotiations this week in Cherry Hill, N. J., failed to resolve the deadlock, and federal mediators prepared to meet with both sides next week in New York.

Because the focus of the contract talks have been on the New York dockers, ILA members in West Gulf ports have defied union leaders and remained at work. An exception was Beaumont, Tex.

Court orders also forced reopening of piers in New Orleans and Philadelphia.

Hit-And-Run Charge Against Area Man

Richard E. Lewis, 41 of 101 Jackson st., North Warren was charged Friday night with hit and run before Justice of the Peace Raymond Gilmore and was released on posting property bond.

State police charged Lewis with leaving the scene of an accident at 8:35 p.m. on Rt. 62, 200 feet north of the Warren Borough line, when his vehicle crossed the center line and struck the vehicle driven by Thomas L. Stover, 39 of Garland. Trooper Edward Shaffer estimated damage at $400 to both vehicles. Police apprehended Lewis on information received from a witness.

Christmas Toys To Be Safer, More Sophisticated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration, accused last year of dragging its feet on toy safety, said Friday that toys under the Christmas tree this season will be safer and more sophisticated than ever before.

During the past year, FDA Commissioner Charles C. Edwards said, 187 toy products have been banned, and toymakers voluntarily have designed many others to increase safety.

But Malcolm W. Jensen, director of the FDA's Bureau of Product Safety, said government action can be no substitute for parental judgment and supervision.

Noting that 5,000 new toys are marketed each year, Jensen warned that not all have been tested and that some recalled toys still could be on store shelves.

"It must remain the responsibility of the adult selecting the toy to choose one that is appropriate for the child, and to examine the toy from time to time to assure that wear or tear has not uncovered a hazardous situation," he said.

They commented at a press briefing in advance of the November-December buying spree that accounts for more than half the $3.6 billion in U.S. toy sales annually.

Last year the FDA banned certain stuffed animals and dolls, darts, noisemakers, toy guns and rattles just five days before Christmas, under the new Toy Safety Act which took effect Jan. 1, 1970.

The agency complained at that time that it was given no additional money or personnel, and acknowledged its ban would be of little help for parents who had already completed their Christmas shopping.

This year the Bureau of Product Safety has more than 200 workers and a $6-million budget, Edwards said, calling it "a fairly cheap insurance policy for the American consumer."

U. S. Will Sell To Russians

WASHINGTON (AP) — Plans to sell about $135 million worth of U.S. feed grains to the Soviet Union under agreements for loading by American maritime unions were disclosed by the Nixon administration Friday.

Officials said the cash deal, with payment in U.S. dollars, is being arranged by Continental Grain Co. and Cargill, Inc., with delivery of two million tons of corn, 600,000 tons of barley and 300,000 tons of oats by next July.

A major key to the grain sale, which is equivalent to more than 15 per cent of all U.S. feed grain exports last year, was organized maritime labor union leaders' assurance that their people would load the ships despite a previous ban on such shipments to Communist nations, officials said.

"I believe initial movements will go through the Great Lake ports," said an administration official who stressed that "there will be nothing moved if the port is on strike."

A strike has been in progress since Oct. 1 at many Gulf and Atlantic Coast ports.

Michael Fribourg, president of Continental Grain, said in a statement: "Our economy will derive substantial benefit from the trade, particularly our balance of payments in the U.S. farm sector."

Fribourg said in the arrangement for the transaction, "credit must be given to the Maritime Union and the International Longshoremen Association for their cooperation in the shipping program."

Secretary of Commerce Maurice H. Stans also noted the cooperation of the leaders of the various maritime unions, saying "They have displayed the highest concern for the nation's welfare."

Stans said the agreements are "a very significant step in establishing mutual beneficial commercial and relations with the Soviet people."

A spokesman for Continental Grain said the shipments probably will be made from East, Gulf and Great Lakes ports.

Administration authorities said vessels of any origin offering competitive shipment rates will be eligible to carry the grain.

Pennsylvania's State Senate, Federal House Districts Not Yet Reapportioned

By LARRY MARGASAK

Associated Press Writer
HARRISBURG (AP) — Reapportionment of the state Senate remained incomplete Friday, despite an approaching deadline. Redistricting of U.S. House seats in Pennsylvania also was unsettled.

The Senate situation was the most serious, because of the time factor. The senatorial districts are reapportioned by a five-member commission, headed by a nonpolitical law professor, with two Democratic and two Republican state lawmakers as members.

Reapportionment is under way now to conform legislative districts with the latest population figures, gathered in the 1970 U.S. census.

The commission already has agreed on a state House realignment plan.

US House reapportionment is handled by the state legislature.

The key date in the reapportionment picture is Jan. 25, the day candidates for the April primary must officially notify the state they are running.

The job must be completed by then, so candidates will know what area their districts comprise.

However, state legislative redistricting must be finished before Jan. 25 due to constitutional provisions for appeals.

Originally, the appeal process was to take 90 days—30 for the public to appeal the redistricting plans, 30 for the commission to consider these appeals, and 30 for appeals to the courts.

State Rep. Kenneth B. Lee, House Republican floor leader, said this period has been reduced to 60-63 days, because the commission will consider public appeals during the initial 30-day period.

The 90-day appeals period already is gone. But Lee, a member of the commission, pointed out the 60-day period may be impossible if the Senate plan is not settled next week.

"It will take a few weeks for advertising (in newspapers around the state)," Lee said.

"That will take us to about Nov. 19. Then, with the mandatory 60 days, the Supreme Court only would have about 6 days to settle appeal cases. This has to be settled next week."

Lee said the problem areas were in Philadelphia, Beaver,

York, Lehigh, Northampton and Cambria counties.

Each Senate seat must have some 235,878 residents.

There is no appeals period for congressional reapportionment, so, technically, the U.S. House plan need not be completed until Jan. 25. However, the legislators would be wise to finish before then, to leave time for court appeals.

On Friday, six U.S. congressmen from the state met with Sen. Donald O. Oesterling, chairman of the Senate Elections and Reapportionment Committee; and Rep. Harry R. J. Comer, chairman of the House State Government Committee.

While the number of state legislative districts remain constant, U.S. House seats must be reduced from 27 to 25, due to a population decline in comparison to other states.

One seat will be eliminated in Allegheny County, and one in Philadelphia. Observers feel the Republicans will lose the Allegheny seat, since Democrats—who have all the Philadelphia districts—would lose the seat there.

"We have to do some juggling," Oesterling said. "Obviously, some people are going to be unhappy."

"I told the congressmen we hope to meet with them about Thanksgiving, and no later than Dec. 1, with a total proposition for realigning the congressional districts," Oesterling said.

Each district must have 471,756 persons under the latest census figures.

In Philadelphia, there's enough population for four seats—there currently are five—with a 50,000 overflow. If Philadelphia loses a seat, the fifth district would be composed mostly of suburbanites.

Oesterling said he doubted that a plan would be approved giving Philadelphia its current five seats—with each extending partially into the suburbs, but remaining under city control.

In Allegheny County, the seat vacated by the recent death of U.S. Rep. James G. Fulton, a Republican, will be broken up and attached to other districts, Oesterling said.

New Sheffield School Three Years Away, Says Luvison

The director of buildings and grounds for the school district said Friday that three years is the earliest possible date that Sheffield could have a new high school, indicating that would be record time.

Norge Luvison confirmed that he had told persons in Sheffield recently that the school approved by the Dept. of Education to house 750 pupils may be located on property presently owned by Collins Pine Corp. The 43 acres of land is on Rt. 6 west of Sheffield.

Luvison said Friday, however, that activity to date has been limited to site study.

He said that even to hope for three years would mean that the district would have to decide to go ahead within the next 60 days and that the Dept. of Education would have to immediately approve the project. He indicated a completion date in four years would be more likely.

Luvison said that three potential sites had been examined but that the Collins Pine property was the only one which could meet all the requirements of the Dept. of Education.

VISIT HISTORICAL SOCIETY

The members of the International Youth Exchange Program of Rotary District 728 last night visited the Warren County Historical Society to see the exhibits prepared for open house this weekend. Here some of the 19 weekend guests of the Rotary Club of Warren visit the country store. A highlight of the open house is an exhibit in memory of the late Elton Whitney Davis, a Warren high school graduate and an artist of considerable fame. Open house will be from 2 to 4:30 p.m. today and tomorrow. (Photo by Dorrian)

Nine Jurors Now Selected For Yablonski Murder Trial

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP) — Two more jurors were selected Friday for the first trial in the Yablonski murder case, bringing the total chosen in four days of tedious screening to nine.

Five more, including two alternates, remain to be picked to sit in judgment of 23-year-old Aubran Martin, one of five persons charged with the slayings of United Mine Workers insurgent Joseph "Jock" Yablonski, his wife and daughter.

"We've never had this much trouble selecting a jury before, but I am hopeful we can finish up tomorrow," said Washington County Judge Charles Sweet, a 57-year-old graduate of Harvard Law School.

The seven women and two men selected were among 125 persons questioned in open court by the judge and attorneys for both sides. Fifty more were to be called for screening Saturday.

The reasons for disqualification ranged from opposition to capital punishment and predetermined opinions to ill health and poor hearing.

Martin was present in the courtroom throughout the questioning and he frequently whispered to his attorney, 30-year-old Mark Goldberg, who is defending the second murder suspect of his career.

The juror selected were immediately taken to a nearby hotel and sequestered under the guard of sheriff's deputies.

Peking Envoys To Arrive Monday At United Nations

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United Nations got official word from Peking Friday that the first Chinese Communist envoys will arrive here Monday and a full delegation to the General Assembly Wednesday or Thursday.

Exchange Students Guests Of Rotary For Weekend

Nineteen high school students from eight countries are guests this weekend of the Rotary Club of Warren. They are members of the International Youth Exchange Program of Rotary District 728 and are guests in Rotary and Rotary-approved homes throughout northwestern Pennsylvania while they are attending school.

They arrived in Warren Thursday night. Friday morning they participated in an assembly program at Warren Area High School and also took part in classroom activities.

Last night, they were guests of Warren Rotary and the district for dinner at the Blue Manor Restaurant and then visited the Warren County Historical Society to view exhibits arranged for open house Saturday and Sunday.

They will tour the Kinzua Dam and recreation areas on the Allegheny Reservoir this morning. At noon, they will leave by bus for Niagara Falls as guests of Rotex, an organization of former exchange students.

Sunday, they will return to Warren and then to their respective "homes away from home," and school.

Officials and diplomats had been waiting for that information since the 131-nation assembly ousted the Republic of China and voted in the People's Republic of China Oct. 25.

A cable from Chi Peng-fei, Red China's acting foreign minister, informed Secretary-General U Thant that its delegation to the 26th session of the assembly "will leave Peking on Nov. 9 and will arrive at United Nations headquarters on Nov. 10 or 11."

The cable added: "Kao Liang (secretary) and five other advance men will arrive on the eighth."

That means 16 Communist Chinese delegates will reach here within the next week. Chinese Nationalist sources at U.N. headquarters said Kao had been a correspondent for Peking's government news agency and had covered the table tennis matches in Tokyo earlier this year.

There had been no previous mention of the six-man advance party. Chi had already sent Thant the names of 10 members making up the delegation to the assembly.

The head of the assembly delegation, Chiao Kuan-hua, is a deputy foreign minister. The deputy head, Huang Hua, is being transferred from Ottawa, where he has been ambassador since July.

BOARD MEETS MONDAY

County School Audit Excellent

The state secretary of education has complimented the Warren County School Board for having records of the district audited by the office of the auditor general without criticism or audit exceptions.

David H. Kurtzman said in a letter to Melvin G. Keller, president, that for the second year in a row, the fiscal and management practices have undergone scrutiny without reproach.

News of the letter was made public Friday in the letter to board members from the superintendent of schools announcing the directors' meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday.

The audit to which Kurtzman referred was of the books of account and records as they pertain to applications for state and federal reimbursements, subsidies and-or payments of certain expenditures of the district for the school year ended June 30, 1968. The field work was completed on October 16, 1970 by the auditor general's office.

Expenditures from the general fund aggregated $7,563,802.50. State reimbursement and subsidies receivable during the school year totaled $4,337,411.88. Federal reimbursements and-or payments received during the school year ended June 30, 1969 totaled $186,625.01.

Federal monies were reimbursed for National Defense Education Act, Title III and Title V programs in the amount of $20,899.09. The district received $5,755.77 for vocational education; $108,008.50 under the Elementary-Secondary Education Act, Title I, Programs for the Disadvantaged; $4,945.46 for the special milk program; $3,571.19 for adult basic education and $43,455 under Public Law 874 which provides funds for impacted areas.

Outdoor Club Hike Sunday

The Allegheny Outdoor Club plans a short hike of about three miles on Sunday, starting and ending at Warr-Penn picnic area just east of Warren in the Morrison Run area. Members are to meet at 2 p.m. at the Warr-Penn. Participants should bring a lunch and wear sturdy shoes. A wood fire will be provided for hot dogs, hamburgs or marshmallows.

The November meeting of the Penn-York Section of the American Chemical Society will be held in the lecture hall of the Arts and Science Building at Jamestown Community College on Wednesday, November 10 at 8 p.m. Dr. Lawrence F. Dahl, professor of Chemistry at the University of Wisconsin, will be the featured speaker.

Chief Cornplanter Post 135, American Legion, is holding a banquet Thursday, Nov. 11 to commemorate the actual Armistice Day date. Guests will include 28th District Commander Cozard and the commanders of the Warren and Clarendon VFW Posts, World War I veterans, and the Marine Corps League. The public is also invited. William Karns, Warren County Director of Veterans Affairs, will be guest speaker. A pork chop dinner catered by Lewis Market ($3.50) will be served at 7 p.m. Reservations must be made no later than Monday, Nov. 8 by calling the Legion Lounge, 723-8380.

The Rt. Rev. William Crittenden of the Episcopal Diocese of Erie will visit St. Francis of Assisi Church, Youngsville Sunday to confirm a class of six young people at 10 a.m. Confirmations are Candy Kane, Julie Anderson, Molly Nagurney, Robert McAleer, Steven Zock and Tod Warner.

The furnace in the Columbus Community Church chose Wednesday to break down and services tomorrow will be held in the Community Building. The Rev. Burr Lounsbury said both church and Sunday School services will be held in the temporary location at the usual times.

The display case located in the foyer on the second floor of the Warren County court house, outside the front entrance to the large court room is currently devoted to memorabilia of the late Earl Beshlin. The collection was arranged by Warren County Historical Society and is well worth viewing.

A sneak thief took $8 from the pocketbook of Mrs. Rose Howard at her Fraley st. apartment in Kane Wednesday. The theft followed a pattern of similar thefts there in recent months. Mrs. Howard had just returned to her apartment, left her purse on a table as she entered and walked into another room with purchases she had made. Her attention was called to a door slam and as she investigated she found the money had been taken. No one was in sight in the apartment area.

Dragons Scorch Bulldogs, 28-0

By DAVE PIRILLO
MEADVILLE—Scoring on the first three times with the pigskin, Warren's Dragons assured themselves of a winning season (5-4) here last night in pillaging Meadville's base camp for a 28-0 onslaught before a scarcely half-filled Bender Stadium of chilled and thrilled bi-partisan patriots.

Promising to offer something new for the final game, Warren's coach Toby Shea did. Razzle-dazzle was the by-word as the four-year pilot puzzled everybody with various and ingenious formations.

At times Shea tried proving that the hand was quicker than the eye, but his premier runner, junior tailback Tom Bright was no illusion, not to Meadville anyway. Romping and churning for 116 yards on eight carries in the first two periods, Bright tackled on 84 in the final two stanzas for a grand total of 200 yards on 13 carries for a season record of just over 1,000 yards.

It was he who scored the initial and final touchdowns of the game, upping his personal touchdown mark to 12, two away from tying an all-time Warren mark set by Dan O'Neil in 1967.

What kind of a game was it? One-sided. In the first half, Warren, before Shea sprinkled the line-up heavily with reserves, had nearly 200 net yards in comparison to a pathetic 15 for the Bulldogs. The defense in that half for Warren was like a huge chunk of granite—immovable.

Chris Sirianni, Andy Lucks, Dave Dunn, Jeff Myers and Leo English, who played for the first time in six weeks, stopping and forcing Meadville back repeatedly, the Dragons were at their highest peak in some time on defense.

Warren had the ball on the 22 after Meadville threatened to push the ball over, coming as close as the Dragon 31. Meadville lost 15 yards as quarterback Dave Stone was brought down in the backfield looking for an uncovered receiver. The 'Dogs then punted.

Jim Stromdahl bolted off left tackle for Warren on the second play and raced by the 25 and 30 on a 16 yard pickup. After a plunge over the left tackle, again by Stromdahl, Bright cut through Meadville's line like a hot knife through butter on a counter. He proceeded to engage in a foot race with the Bulldog secondary before he was finally hauled down on the eight of Meadville, a scamper of 55 yards. It was fourth-and-two for a touchdown when quarterback Rob Young went to the bench to confer with Shea.

He came back with a play, which was to be a pop through Dave Dunn's left guard spot with Bright carrying the mail. It worked in picture book fashion and Warren broke into the scoring column with a six-pointer. Lining up for the points—after, Warren befuddled the Bulldogs by sending Andy Lucks over the ball at center and the rest of the team over near the sidelines. Meadville thought Warren was confused and waited for the Dragons to re-adjust, but they didn't. Instead, Lucks hiked the ball to Stromdahl, who pranced into the end zone unmolested behind eight or nine escorts. It was the "ole HOLLYWOOD SPECIAL," a play that Warren hadn't utilized since the days of Fred Bell, when his assistant Ed Barry brought the play to Warren from down-state.

Meadville's problems had only started. On fourth down on the following set of plays, Dave DeLo went back to punt for the second time after a 15 yard penalty fair catch interference—set the 'Dogs back to their 23. This attempt was a catastrophe, as DeLo, in the face of a hard rush, booted one straight in the air, coming down 11 yards from the line of scrimmage.

Warren then had the ball on the host's 30. Rob Young maintained the calmness and collectiveness that he had been working all season long to achieve. He faked to both backs, crashing into the line. With the ball tucked behind his left thigh, he rolled to his left and flung a spiral in the direction of split end Mike Piehuta, who was waiting near the left "coffin corner." Piehuta latched onto the ball on the one for a 29 yard reception. It was his first of three, which totaled 47 yards and one TD.

Meadville, more gun shy than anything else, reluctantly handed the ball over to the visitors again.

The 'Dogs quickly learned that this was another mistake when Bright scorched over 46 yards on two carries in a progressive ground maneuver which started on Warren's 22. Warren was banging on the end zone door again after Bright's second sprint. Shea called for his "EISENHOWER SPECIAL". This particular formation enabled the center to become eligible for a pass. The center, Lucks, was hit with a pass over the middle, but couldn't find the handle. The weird alignments had Warren's offense scattered between both sideline boundaries. It confused not only Meadville, but the fans, press and Meadville coaches.

The shenagans were put off for awhile, as Young hit Piehuta in the left flat for the first part of a five yard touchdown. After a penalty on the extra point try, Warren was set back too far to tack on the points-after.

Meadville came down to the three yard line twice before the half, but couldn't budge the adamant Warren defense from there to the magic stripe.

The Bulldogs, in the course of the game, penetrated Warren's 20 five times, four of those five were inside the ten.

With 4:31 remaining in the third quarter, Bright, on a first-and-ten from his 38, bolted through a man-made hole over his left side made by Dunn. He then zig-zagged through the Meadville defensive backfield in an attempt to elude. He was successful and out-raced everybody for 62 yards and the final TD. Stromdahl caught a Young pass for the 27th and 28th points.

Meadville's closest attempt for a score came when DeLo tried kicking a 24-yard field goal. The ball was a slight bit to the left of the crossbar.

Shea, when asked what the

Dave Havern Nears 2 Offensive Marks

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Though only 5-foot-9, Dave Havern may soon stand tallest of them all in the Pitt record book.

The senior quarterback needs 51 yards passing or rushing against Notre Dame Saturday to become the all-time total offense leader in Pitt history. Two more touchdown passes and he'll have thrown more than any Panther ever.

What the statistics do not tell is how close Havern came to being a bench-sitter instead of a record-setter.

As a sophomore, he started for Pitt's 1-9 team and finished 15th in the NCAA in passing, but he missed the next season with mononucleosis.

Havern started his junior year as a second-stringer behind sophomore John Hogan, but injuries to Hogan put Havern in the driver's seat and he led Pitt to a 5-5 mark.

This year, Havern had been alternating with Hogan and sophomore Bob Medwid, but Medwid broke his shoulder last Saturday and Havern has the job again.

"I never really thought of myself as a second-string quarterback," said the self-assured native of McKees Rocks, Pa. "I believe I can do the job and I'm ready any time the coaches need me."

Three times this season, Havern has taken the worry out of being close in Pitt victories.

Against UCLA and Navy he threw the winning touchdown passes in the final minutes. Last week he came off the bench, threw the tying touchdown pass to lead Pitt to a 31-21 win over Syracuse.

"I was helping coach on the sidelines the first half," said victory meant to him said, "I'm glad for the seniors. They don't have to go out with a losing season. That stigma would have stayed with them a long time."

EAGLE HAND-OUTS

are coming off a 18-3 year and an exciting 75-73 loss to the Mercer Mustangs in the State Tournament.

Expect The Unexpected As Ike Meets Cougars

What type of tactics will the Cassadaga Valley Cougars use Saturday when they invade the home grounds of the Eisenhower Knights?

Ike coach Tom Firth isn't certain of what to expect, since the Cougars used all underclassmen last week, and change their offensive plans frequently. The game will be played at 2 p.m., a later-than usual starting time.

Joe Annarella, the Cassadaga Valley head mentor, meanwhile, doesn't really know what his charges will be doing either. Referring to the poor season the Cougars are having, Annarella said, "The way things are going, we'll use just about anything."

Then what type of defense will the Cougars employ? Well, that depends on who Annarella decides to play. He hedged the question nicely, saying they will be out to prevent the Knights from running up the middle, sweeping around the ends and passing. About all the coach forgot was punts and kickoffs.

Only three seniors will hold down starting berths in the Cougars opening offensive lineup—guard Wayne Saxton, tackle Bruce Benson and end Dan Gilbert—the entire right side of the line.

The backfield is split between underclassmen, with sophomore Kim Carlson calling signals and fellow classman Mark Crowell running from the left halfback position. Juniors Dave Dairymple and Keith Ulrick hold down the other two posts.

Only one senior, Ron Gustafson, is expected to see action with the defensive unit. Line-up juggling may be required of Firth for Saturday's encounter, as one starter is definitely out and another is questionable. Bob Thelin, who has been hampered by a bad ankle most of the season, re-injured it in last week's game with Westfield and will not play. Ernie Carlson was hurt in practice this week and remains a doubtful starter.

If Carlson is unable to play, Greg Manelick, who has done some fine running in the Knights' backfield, will be moved to the end position and Sam Kellogg will step into the fullback slot.

Although the league title is not at stake, the game will help break up a four way tie in the Valley Conference for fourth place. Ike, Cassadaga Valley, Pine Valley and Randolph all go into the final weekend of action with 2-4 marks.

PSU Going After Season's 8th Win

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — It's been a decade since Maryland defeated Penn State. Chances are that streak will be extended Saturday.

Penn State, with an excellent chance of going undefeated this season, already has won seven straight games — 12 consecutive games over the past two seasons.

Maryland, on the other hand, is 2-6 this year, with victories over Villanova and VMI.

Last week, the Nittany Lions defeated a stubborn West Virginia team 35-7, their first difficult test since they nipped the Air Force 16-14 a month earlier.

Coach Joe Paterno prudently refuses to bypass Maryland in his thinking.

"We had to play a great football game to beat West Virginia," he said. "I'm just hopeful that we can stick together and pay attention to first things — and that of course means Maryland this week."

Sophomore quarterback Al Neville is the key to the Maryland attack. He has completed 64 of 131 passes for 841 yards and eight touchdowns.

Neville's favorite receiver is Dan Burgorie, his high school teammate, who has caught 21 passes for 309 yards and seven touchdowns.

But Penn State has a few things to counter with.

Lyndell Mitchell is closing in on Penn State's rushing record and needs only 49 yards against Maryland to set it.

And Franco Harris has scored five touchdowns and has rushed for 465 yards although he has been hampered somewhat with injuries.

Maxwell Grabs Mexican Lead

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Billy Maxwell, taking advantage of shortened tees, fired a seven-under-par 65 and moved three strokes in front of Lee Trevino Friday in the second round of the Mexican Open golf tournament.

The 41-year-old Maxwell, one of the shortest hitters on the American tour, posted a 36 hole total of 133, 11 under par on the Club de Golf course.

Trevino, the heavy favorite to add this national title to his collection of American, British and Canadian crowns, slipped from a leading 65 in the first round to 71 and was alone in second at 136.

"I couldn't buy a putt," Trevino said. "And when you don't make the putt, you don't make the money."

"Only missed one green, but I putted just horribly."

"We've got two days to go. Lots of things can happen yet. There's a lot of birdies out there, and a lot of bogeys—a lot of trouble. All sorts of things can happen yet."

Trevino, who set a single season money winning record of $227,243 last week, hit a fairway trap on his first hole, was short of the green—the only one he missed—and bogeyed the hole.

He netched one bird from 18 feet and another from eight, but missed five times inside 12 feet.

It was another three strokes back to a group of three at 139. They were Americans Rocky Thompson and Dwight Nevil, and Canadian amateur Gary Cowan. Nevil had a 67, Thompson had 71 and Cowan 68.

American tour regulars Bob Rosburg and R. H. Sikes were tied with Spain's Angel Gallardo and Juan Neri of Mexico at 140. Rosburg had a 70, Sikes 71 and the other two matched par 72s.

The Club de Golf course is listed at 7,174 yards, but the tees were pushed far forward Friday to help speed play.

"It couldn't have played more than 6,000," Rosburg said. "I'll guarantee you, if they leave the tees where they are, there's no living man going to beat Maxwell."

Maxwell, 41, is a 5-foot-7 Texan who has been on the American tour for 18 years. He scored his last victory in 1962 and won this championship in 1956.

"I just kind of got it going and got awful lucky," Maxwell said. "But you've got to be lucky to shoot this kind of a round."

He didn't have a bogey and laced irons inside of six feet four times for birdies. Three others were in the 12 foot range.

Jabbar's Point Spree

Bring Bucks Back

CHICAGO (AP) — Kareem Jabbar scored 10 points in a three-minute flurry early in the fourth quarter Friday night to help Milwaukee come from behind and score a 104-102 National Basketball Association victory over the Chicago Bulls.

"Best thing that ever happened to me," said the Canadian soccer-style kicker. "I don't think Coach Hughes (of Houston) liked the soccer style, although he didn't say so when I asked him."

Gerela says the thing he likes about the Steelers is the freedom he's given by Noll.

KICKING PRODUCES 44 POINTS

Gerela Gives Steelers Hope

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers' high scorer this season is a previously unheralded player who has often given the team that "extra kick" so often necessary to win a football game.

In seven games this season, Roy Gerela has lent consistency to the Steelers' kicking game, connecting on 10 field goals in 14 attempts, and 14 extra point conversions in 14 attempts.

By comparison, last season Gene Mingo and Allen Watson made only 10 of 28 field goal attempts. Watson also missed two extra points.

The Steelers have tried out a long list of kickers since 1960, among them Mike Clark, Boothe Lustig, Lou Michaels, Frank Lambert. But the kicking game has seldom been better than average.

Gerela has changed that this season.

"He's given us consistency," says Steeler Coach Chuck Noll. "I'm pleased with his performance."

The 23-year-old Gerela became available to the Steelers when Houston dropped him shortly before the season began.

"Best thing that ever happened to me," said the Canadian soccer-style kicker. "I don't think Coach Hughes (of Houston) liked the soccer style, although he didn't say so when I asked him."

Gerela says the thing he likes about the Steelers is the freedom he's given by Noll.

came that if I don't feel like kicking in practice some days or if my leg doesn't feel strong, that I don't have to kick.

"It hasn't happened yet, but the point is he doesn't care what I do as long as I'm ready for Sunday."

Gerela booted three field goals in one game this season. His longest field goal was from the 42-yard line.

"What we were looking for," says Noll, "was a kicker with accuracy inside the 40-yard line. 'I think Roy fits that bill.'"

Gerela credits his brother Ted, a placekicker for the British Columbia Lions in Canada, with helping his kicking.

"When I talk to him—even by phone—I can see myself kick. I describe what I'm doing, how the ball takes off, how it reacts in the air and things like that."

Who's the better kicker? "He's almost as good," Gerela said candidly. "He gets more distance—a few yards—than I do, but I get it higher, and I'm more accurate inside the 40 than him."

"But don't print that," he chided. "I don't want to create any dissension in the family."

Pitt, Irish's Punching Bag, Finally Ready To Fight Back

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pitt, which has been Notre Dame's punching bag since 1965, promises to put up its dukes when the ninth-ranked fighting Irish visit here Saturday.

"We're going to fight them," said Pitt Coach Carl DePasqua. "We're going to see if we can slug it out with them."

For six straight seasons Pitt has been knocked cold by Notre Dame by scores of 69-13, 40-0, 38-0, 56-7, 49-7, and 46-14.

"No doubt we have taken plenty of lumps from them," said Pitt linebacker Ralph Cindrich.

Though Pitt is only 3-4 and Notre Dame is 6-1, this year's game could be different.

The young Panthers have been able to move the ball in every game and their defense appeared to solidify in last week's 31-21 win over Syracuse.

However, the Irish have had trouble passing this season, as evidenced by the fact that All-American wide receiver Tom Gatewood has only 18 receptions.

Coach DePasqua sums up his teams chances this way: "Our running has been effective the last several weeks. . . if we can't run we could have some trouble."

Pitt quarterback Dave Havern needs 51-yards passing or rushing to break the all time Pitt total offense record of 3,171-yards, set by Warren Heller in the early 1930's. Two more touchdown passes and Havern will have thrown more than any other Pitt player.

The five-foot-nine inch quarterback made this observation: "Last season we lost to Syracuse and wound up losing our last four games, this year we beat Syracuse and maybe we can win the rest."

FERGIE PROVES HIS POINT

(c) 1971 New York Times News Service
NEW YORK—The only element of genuine surprise to emerge from the election of Ferguson Jenkins as the National League winner of the Cy Young Award was the fact that one member of the 24-man committee did not mark the big Cub pitcher on his ballot, not even for third place. It is an omission that defies comprehension.

"Ridiculous," snapped Tom Seaver of the Mets. "How could anyone leave Jenkins off the ballot after the year he had?"

It is a valid question and there can be no acceptable explanation. Fergie reached a career high last season with 24 victories, his fifth straight year in the fancy 20-game brackets. He pitched the most innings, had the most complete games, gave the fewest walks and was second to Seaver in strikeouts. Yet some rockhead left him off his ballot entirely. Why?

Like most post-season distributions of honors, the Cy Young elections are handled by the Baseball Writers Association, oldest and best of all sports writing groups. The membership rolls blossom brightly with the flower of American literature. Awesome indeed are these men with such trenchant pens, astute perceptions, vast knowledge and dazzling intelligence. There have been occasions, though, when some dope steps in to louse up the parade.

Many years ago, for instance, one spiteful elector refused to give Ted Williams even the tenth and last place on a different kind of ballot. It cost Williams a Most Valuable Player trophy. By some quirk of fate, however, Ted was voted the M.V.P. in a year when he had a season that fell slightly short of his normal exalted standards.

"They owed me that one," he said, with a happy smile.

Although Williams antagonized a lot of baseball writers over the years, the quiet Jenkins hardly seems the type for getting a voter so mad at him as to leave him off the ballot entirely. For that matter, the exceedingly popular Seaver was omitted from five ballots in taking second place to Jenkins. That also defies explanation.

Seaver barely made it to the 20-game plateau, scrambling there on the last day of the season after all sorts of heartbreaking misadventures enroute. But he set a new league strikeout record for righthanded pitchers and had a stunningly low earned run average of 1.76. His credentials were impressive.

But if I had been asked to take part in the voting, I know what I would have done. First of all, I would have had to put aside my personal high regard for Seaver. Then I would have marked my ballot with Jenkins, Seaver and Al Downing of the Dodgers in that order, the same order that the committee chose.

I would have been influenced unquestionably by Jenkins' 24 victories as well as by his other statistics. The numbers that left me bug-eyed were those for bases on balls. In 325 innings this work horse yielded only 37 walks, figures that make him a throwback to such ancient masters of control as Christy Mathewson and Grover Cleveland Alexander. It is no accident. "I concentrate heavily," said Fergie, "on not walking those .240 batters who come up ahead of the big hitters. When I can do that, I'm on my way to a winning season."

If any extra influencing factor had been necessary in the selection of Jenkins, it could have been the thought that anyone producing five successive 20-game years certainly was overdue. After all, this is an extremely rare achievement and the record books prove it.

Carl Hubbell also had five straight. Later on, Robin Roberts had six in a row and so did Warren Spahn who was to have a dozen 20-game years in all. Lefty Grove had seven consecutive years while Walter Johnson ripped off 10 straight, paused slightly and picked up another pair. Of Mathewson's 13 years as a 20-gamer, he had 12 in succession. Who was the head man? None other than Cy Young, our founder. He had 14 such seasons.

The winning of the Cy Young Award is extremely important to Jenkins in so many ways. For years he has without a claim in Chicago, blending into the scenery while more glamorous people like Leo Durocher, Ernie Banks, Ron Santo, Billy Williams and even Joe Pepitone attracted attention. Now Fergie may even rate an endorsement or TV commercial as a new, distinguished personality.

Then there's the matter of salary, the prestige boost to the $100,000-plus brackets he never quite made. He'll make it now, though. Perhaps he might even approach Bob Gibson, a man he has regarded with both envy and admiration.

"The only difference between Gibson and me," he once said, "is money. The front office doesn't think I rank with Gibson, Seaver and Marichal. I'm out to prove that I do."

It now looks as though he's proved it.

SNEAD GETS STARTING NOD Vikes, SF Clash

By The Associated Press
Veteran quarterback Norm Snead, a starter virtually all of his first 10 seasons, in the National Football League with Washington and Philadelphia, completed 1,711 of 3,328 passes for 23,967 yards and 157 touchdowns entering the current campaign.

However, this season, Snead's first with Minnesota, he has been relegated to second-string behind Gary Cuozzo, and has connected on only 27 of 51 aials for 325 yards and one touchdown. But Sunday, the 6-foot-4, 215-pounder from Wake Forest may be entrusted with the starting assignment again—in one of the Vikings' biggest games of the season.

With Cuozzo ailing with a bruised right shoulder and a mild concussion suffered in last Sunday's game against the New York Giants, Snead is expected to start against the rugged San Francisco 49ers in a key game at Minnesota.

San Francisco, which beat Minnesota 17-14 in a National Football Conference playoff last year, is on top in the Western Division with a 5-2 record. Minnesota, seeking its fourth consecutive Central Division crown, is out front with a 6-1 record.

As usual, the Vikings have been winning mostly on their defense, featuring the "Purple Gang" line of ends Carl Eller and Jim Marshall and tackles Alan Page and Gary Larsen. They have allowed the fewest points in the NFC, 59, and rank second in total defense and passing defense.

However, they needed a 55-yard touchdown pass from Snead to Bob Grim with 1:04 remaining to beat the Giants 17-10 last week.

While the Minnesota-San Francisco clash is of utmost importance, there will be 11 other NFL games Sunday.

On Sunday, Washington, leading the NFC's Eastern Division at 6-1, will entertain Philadelphia; Miami, tops in the American Football Conference East at 5-1-1, will be host to Buffalo; Cleveland, heading the AFC Central Division at 4-3, visits Pittsburgh; Kansas City, 5-1-1 and tied for the AFC West lead with Oakland, will be at the New York Jets, and Oakland will be on the road to New Orleans.

Also, Houston will be at New England, Dallas at St. Louis, Green Bay at Chicago, Atlanta at Cincinnati, Detroit at Denver, and San Diego at the Giants.

Los Angeles will be at Baltimore in Monday night's nationally televised game.

naval reserve: backbone of the navy

By BOB CLEVER

If you would ask any coach to point to his best assurance for a continually successful football, basketball, hockey or baseball team, he would point to his reserves.

An admiral of any naval district, and on up to the secretary of the navy, would point to the U.S. Naval Reserve units for the same reason.

And one of the finest of these units, whose complement includes men from Warren County, is the U.S. Naval Reserve Training Center on Hazeltine ave. in Jamestown, N.Y.

It is one of 44 such units in the third naval district which includes New York, Connecticut and the northern part of New Jersey.

Of the 128 men and officers in the 15-man training support unit are from Warren and one of the most successful commanding officers is a Warren man.

Area men have helped fill the ranks of the reserve unit since it was founded in 1946, 16 weeks after the end of World War II.

The first division drills were held at the Fenton Mansion and later at the Industrial Arts Building of Jamestown High School.

In July, 1948 ground was broken for the new center at Hazeltine ave., leased from the city at one dollar per year and later purchased for $10,000. The building, completed at a cost of approximately $1 million, was dedicated on January 24, 1950 by Rear Admiral Walter S. Delaney, then commandant of the Third Naval District.

Warren men were among the 50 reservists called to active duty during the Korean War. They were better able to serve in time of emergency because they had continued their training at the center.

The division has consistently placed high in the inter-division system designed to enhance overall performance and readiness.

Under the command of Lt. S. W. (Sid) Blackman of Warren, the unit attained its highest rating in competition for the Forrestal Trophy losing by only four points, and then only on failure to be at its allotted strength. They have also placed second twice in district competition. Last year they placed 35th out of 140 units nationally.

Preparedness and training are the main purposes of the spotless, efficient center. Keeping the men who have returned from active duty ready for mobilization again is the goal of their meetings every Tuesday evening.

Until this year, the center had two divisions, the surface division (men who have returned from active duty) and the military training division (a pre-active duty outfit composed of men training prior to active service.)

As of July 31, 1971, the center under the command of Cmdr. Vince Goodrich of Bradford began recruiting reservists to attend six weeks of boot training and then attend school. The length of school varies from six weeks to six months.

Members of the surface division now augment surface ships and the fleet extension unit and are presently deployed to a submarine tender.

Men may become reservists there who hold deck rates and propulsion engineering rates. Ineligible are Seabees and veterans of the air or submarine program.

Warren men officers of the training support unit are Lt. Cmdr. William Morgan, Lt. Cmdr. Donald Russell and Capt. Khlar McDonald.

Among other Warren area men presently active there are Lt. (jg) James Senger Jr., FTG3 Gary Mickle, Master Chief James Senger, SK1 Chris McAmbley, BM2 John Bosco, SM3 Dennis Thompson, HM2 Terry Pearson, DC3 David Flasher, BTFN Randall Wolfe, EMC Warren Pickett.

Most recently recruited from Warren was SR Richard Hofer of Warren, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard F. Hofer. He will report to Great Lakes Naval Training Center on November 25. Upon completion of 10 weeks of boot training he will train there for the electronic technician rate.

Besides the drill hall and meeting rooms, the Jamestown Center has facilities for training metal smiths, machinists, carpenters, hospital corpsmen and radio technicians.

Its facilities are regularly used by the Civil Air Patrol, the Chautauqua Power Squadron, Civil Defense, the Air Force and the Army Reserves.

A high calibre of young men continue to join the reserves assuring America of adequate protection in time of national emergencies.

RESERVE UNIT WINS

On the 25th anniversary in 1951 of the U.S. Naval Reserve unit at Jamestown, the unit under the command of Lt. Sidney Blackman of Warren, center, won the annual inspection of the third naval district and was only four points behind the national winner for the James Forrestal Trophy. Blackman is shown here center with Scott Calderwood, left, executive officer on the occasion of the announcement of the victory.

Columnist Writes . . .

A nationally-known syndicated newspaper columnist has written of the effect of reserve training on young men. James J. Kilpatrick described his return home after 80 days of summer boot camp at Great Lakes.

"Gone is the mop-top. His sunburned brow is crowned by a small turf of hair as tightly mowed as a putting green.

"He is shaved until he shines like a cue ball. He stands like an arrow.

"This is not all. He is full of strange expressions in a tongue that was hitherto unknown.

" 'Can't stand this gear-drift,' he says and he begins stowing his gear away.

" 'You'll never pass PI,' he says to his startled younger brother.

"Without waiting to be asked he has waxed the floor of the head and polished everything else besides.

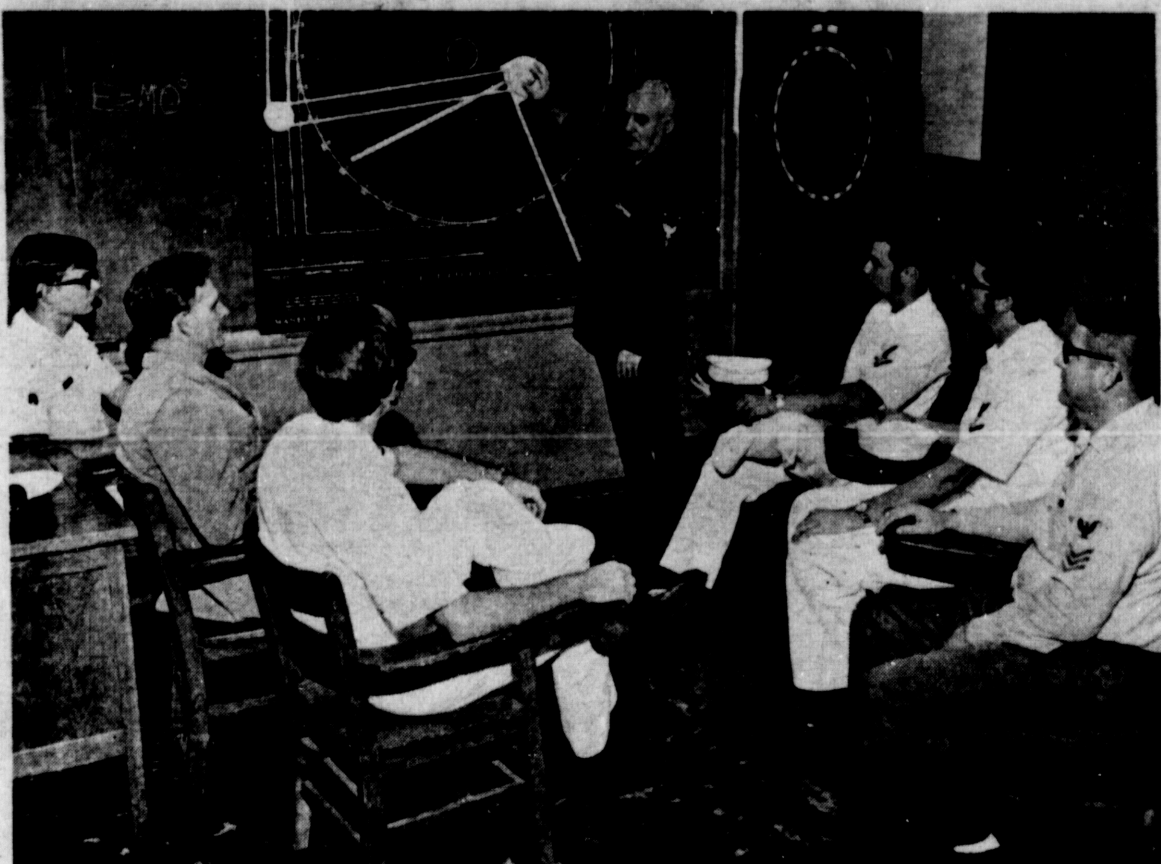

"You can read the date of a quarter reflected in his glossy loafers.

"He says 'yes, sir' and means it."

Kilpatrick concluded that training in the reserves made a man of his son.

Events Involving Warren Area Reservists

At one time, over 70 men from the Warren area were members of the U.S. Naval Reserve unit at Jamestown, N.Y. The following is a partial listing in chronological order of events involving some of these men.

February 6, 1950: Lts. Harold Honhart and Sidney Blackman left with 15-man contingent for West Indies cruise.

March 20, 1950: Lt. (jg) James Hengst applied for training at an advanced school.

October 4, 1950: Men ordered to active duty included Chief Geary W. Bean, Lt. (jg). Charles G. Blackman and Paul J. Cable.

November 6, 1950: Lt. (jg) Harold N. Honhart among 14 members called to active duty.

January 8, 1951: Charles C. Leuthold cruised aboard the USS Eberle.

January 19, 1951: Lt. Sidney W. Blackman promoted to commanding officer and Lt. (jg) Walter (Scott) Calderwood executive officer.

February 19, 1951: Sworn in were Ken Richardson, Alfred Hewbeck, Ken Rickerson, John Tucker, John B. Updegraff III, Jack Bliss, Dave Culbertson.

March 24, 1951: Richard Sharp Sr. named honorman of his reserve company.

October 9, 1951: Charles H.

Paterson and Raymond E. Lyle report for active duty.

March 12, 1951: Geary Bean signed up for another hitch.

April 15, 1952: Honor plaque presented to Charles C. Blackman, Robert E. Lyle, Charles H. Paterson, William F. Clinger Jr., James Hengst and Elwood W. Beckwith.

February 26, 1953: Charles P. Irvin joined the reserve unit.

February 26, 1953: Geary W. Bean receives meritorious mast award.

February 17, 1953: Boyd H. Zinger inducted into the reserve.

May 19, 1953: Leaving for a cruise on the Great Lakes were Fred H. Maier, John B. Updegraff III, Robert C. Buchanan, Owen B. Carlberg and Lt. (jg) James Hengst.

October 9, 1952: Among 34 men promoted were C.R. Baxter, H.C. Schussler, F.M. Masterson, J.A. Brittan, J.B. Updegraff III, J.G. Tucker, A.L. Anderson, G.M. Logan,

M.R. Phelps.

December 15, 1952: William V. Christie enlist and Donald E. Guihre promoted.

June 29, 1953: 49 reservists head for training duty including William K. Barrett, Gail L. Morine, Dennis C. Snyder, Donald A. Hunter.

February 8, 1956: Warren area reservists assist in greeting Lucille Ball for world premiere of movie in Jamestown.

March 24, 1956: Frederick E.

Gaghan and John M. Abbott leave on two-week tour of duty.

May 14, 1956: A.L. Anderson and Dean A. Foote among 10 naval reserve men on short duty assignments.

July 4, 1957: Reserve unit participates in Warren's Fourth of July parade with Jim Senger shouting commands.

February 4, 1959, E.B. Lyon accepted for EM school and Roger E. Dunham completes active duty tour.

March 12, 1960: Geary Bean, veteran of three wars, reenlists: John A. Marymont enlists with 10 other men.

December 15, 1960: Swear-ins include D.C. Sorensen, E.E. Conklin, F.L. Dunham, B.L. Wright, A.R. Ward, J.E. Hartman.

September 28, 1963: Jim Senger receives meritorious service ribbons.

July 29, 1965: Jim Senger and William C. Asher cited for perfect attendance.

July 9, 1965: David Frantz promoted to rank of ensign.

December 17, 1965: Chris McAmbley and B.R. Frederickson head for active duty.

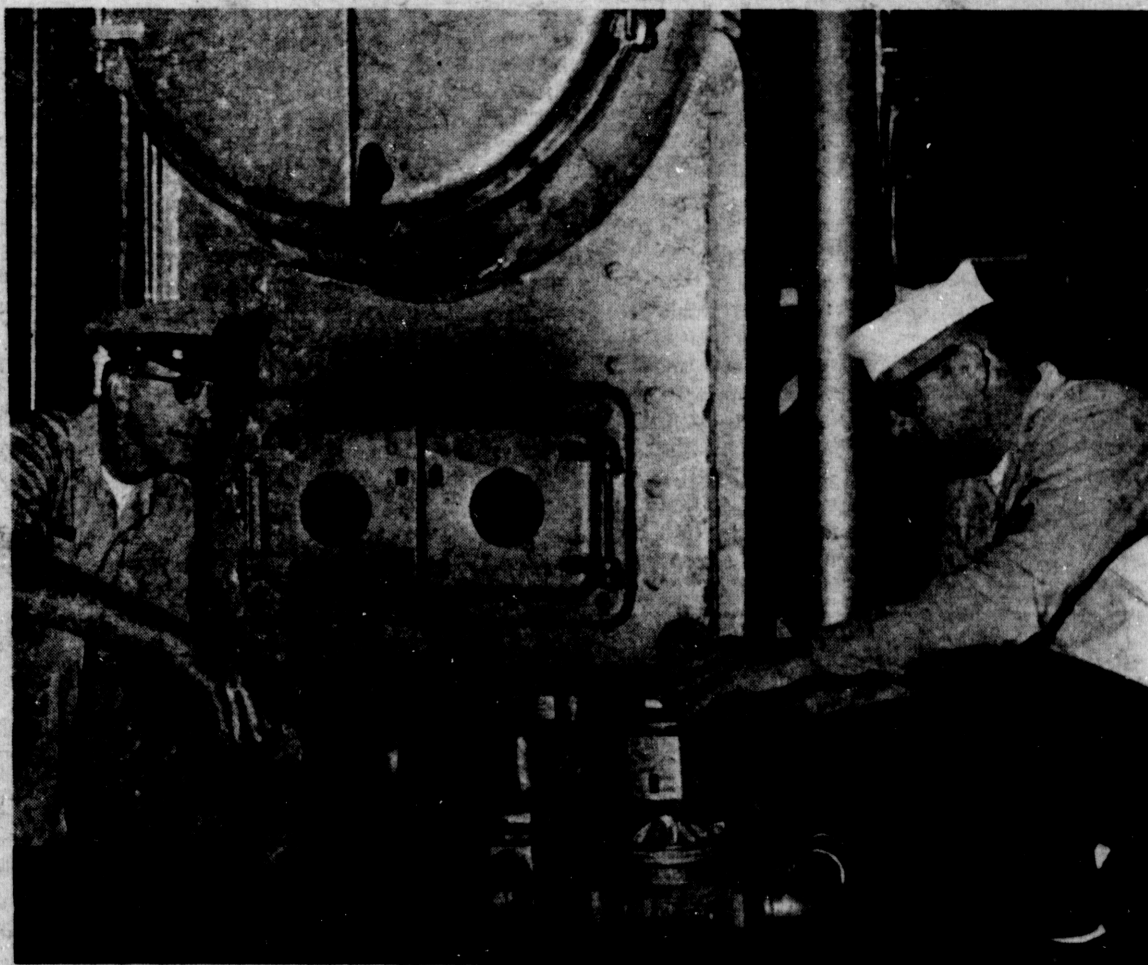

November 11, 1966: Jim Senger receives honor sailor award.

November 7, 1968: Michael P. Bova and Richard E. Anderson depart for active duty.

August 13, 1970: Stephen D. Glass leaves for active duty.

September 4, 1971: Jim Senger promoted to rank of master chief.

November 3, 1971: SFL L.I. Tuller is on active duty at Little Creek, Va.

Further Obligation

Does the average American know the first thing about democracy? If he does he keeps it pretty well under cover. For the first "thing" about democracy is to be an active part of the government; relating one's self to every problem and policy that can, even in the most remote way, influence the individual's happiness or prosperity.

Supposedly, this is to be accomplished in our form of democracy by the individual informing "his" legislators at local, state and federal levels as to just what his opinions are on the issues of the times. They are the representatives of the people according to the governmental structure established by our forefathers. Not of the highly vocal minority groups, powerful labor unions, big business, and investment organizations alone; but of all the people.

Yet how many among us let our voices be heard in the management of governmental affairs? Why is it necessary for our local congressman to mail out questionnaires to sample public opinion? How many of us will take time to let Albert Johnson, Dick Frame, or Bill Allen know how we personally feel about the conduct of governmental affairs?

Too few of us. Too many of us entertain a "let George do it" attitude. Until something goes wrong. Then we can yell our heads off—but to the guy next door—not to the "representative of the people" who is anxious to serve us.

Voting is the great democratic franchise. But it is not the one and only duty of a worthy citizen. Only those who participate fully in the democratic process can claim that title.

This brings us to the point of commending those who voted last Tuesday for being exemplary citizens. But as well to the point of reminding even these participating citizens that in the act of voting they haven't by any means fully discharged their obligation to our form of government. Only through full participation can this be accomplished.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Union Funds Raided

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON—A secret Senate report describes in detail how United Mine Workers boss Tony Boyle used a variety of illicit schemes to raid the union's treasury for campaign funds.

The Senate sleuths encountered "strong resistance" from union officials, who were often "belligerent" and hurled "obscenities" at the investigators, the report alleges. One official brandished a revolver.

The document has been turned over to the Justice Department by the Senate Labor Subcommittee. Federal agents are now investigating the Senate leads for possible criminal action.

Boyle's reelection over the murdered insurgent, Jock Yablonski, is already under court challenge by the Labor Department. Boyle has also been indicted for embezzlement and conspiracy to make illegal contributions.

The Senate subcommittee, headed by Harrison Williams, D-N.J., had made public only the bare finding that Boyle used union funds in the 1969 campaign. The details, backing up this allegation, have been kept secret until now.

The committee makes three basic charges. The first is that "Tony Boyle, UMW officials and district officers appointed by Boyle misused union funds by increasing loans to the various districts where Yablonski was strongest in order to hire additional employees who did not function in their official capacity and who campaigned for Boyle's reelection."

BOYLE'S DUST MEN

The report details how the so-called "loans" to the union districts increased by nearly a half-million dollars during the election year. It explains how nearly 200 extra employees were put on the payroll mostly as "dust committeemen," ostensibly to check for excessive dust in mines but actually to campaign for Boyle. "It is also to be noted that practically none of the dust committeemen functioned in that capacity since the great majority of them were 'locked out of the mines by the owners,'" the report says.

One of the dust committeemen gave the committee a signed statement that he "was never told what his duties were as a dust committeeman; he never entered any mines to check for dust conditions; he was instructed by the district president to distribute election materials for Boyle and to set up a Boyle campaign headquarters; he was also instructed to attend the meetings of three local unions and to have any discussion relating to Yablonski ruled out of order."

The second charge is that "district officials who are appointed by Tony Boyle and who can be removed by Tony Boyle and employees hired by those appointed officers misused union funds through contributions to (Boyle) which were later recaptured by substantial pay raises, and guaranteeing loans to raise funds for Boyle's campaign, the repayment of which was made following substantial pay raises in 1970."

UNION AIDES DUNNED

The report cites subpoenaed records which show that while Boyle raised nearly $250,000, "less than one per cent of the campaign money came from rank and file members."

Most of the money, the committee found, came from members of the union hierarchy who gave either $1,000 or $500 depending on their rank and salary. Nearly all got salary increases later. Others received raises which covered the amounts they borrowed to contribute to their boss's reelection.

The committee's third charge is that Boyle's associates used still "other illegal methods to funnel union monies into Boyle's campaign."

In one case, the committee alleges, a union attorney was paid "an additional $40,000 in legal fees in 1969 and a portion of these fees were later siphoned into Boyle's campaign."

The committee also charges that after one official "gave a $5,000 loan to his local Boyle campaign fund, he received a $5,000 check for 'organizing expenses.'" The report adds that "he does not have receipts for the expenditures of these funds."

The secret report also describes how the Senate investigators were obstructed by union officials. "From the outset," the report says, "the investigators... were met by strong resistance from the United Mine Workers of America, usually through their attorneys."

It adds that "a large number of the UMW district officials were quite belligerent toward the investigation" and that the investigators "were subjected to obscenities from these men. In one instance, a district secretary-treasurer even inferred that he would have assaulted the investigator rather than cooperate had he been a younger man."

"This particular secretary-treasurer also informed staff investigators that he had a permit to carry a concealed weapon, producing same, and said that he usually carried a .44 magnum revolver."

ART BUCHWALD

A Marriage Contract

WASHINGTON—The chief steward of the "Christina," Aristotle Onassis' yacht, has just written a book in which he says that Mr. Onassis and his wife, the former Jacqueline Kennedy, signed a marriage contract with 170 clauses in it.

According to the steward, Christian Kafarakis, the contract stipulates separate bedrooms for the couple, lays down the rules as to how much time the couple must spend together and spells out financial arrangements. These include a $600,000 yearly allowance for Mrs. Onassis in addition to any gifts Mr. Onassis might give her, as well as a provision that if Mr. Onassis ever leaves his wife, Mrs. Onassis will receive the sum of $9.6 million for every year of their marriage.

If Mrs. Onassis were to leave Mr. Onassis, she would receive a lump sum of $18 million under the terms of the alleged contract. Mr. Onassis also is said to have provided $100 million in his will—for Mrs. Onassis.

A spokeswoman for Mrs. Onassis categorically and unequivocally denied that such a marriage contract exists and called the story nonsense.

I have no knowledge of whether such a contract does exist and shall leave Mr. Onassis and his ex-steward to fight that one out.

But I do know that marriage contracts, particularly in Europe, are not uncommon, and as a matter of fact since both my wife and I were living in Paris when we wanted to get married, we signed one.

Our marriage contract, which has 169 clauses in it, was thrashed out over a period of months before the wedding was agreed to.

It provides for the following, among other things:

—I have to spend half the year with my wife (she tried to hold out for seven months). This time can be broken up any way I want it. I am permitted to go on lectures attend openings of Hilton Hotels, go to pro football games and attend homecoming weekends. For every day less than six months that I don't spend with her, I have to give her $2.50 or its equivalent in trading stamps.

—I am committed under the terms of the contract to give my wife $600 a year for her pleasure, safety, clothes, hairdresser, cosmetics and the care of the house. The $600 does not include gasoline for the car, providing she uses it on family business.

—If I want to leave my wife, I must give her the sum of $50 for every year we have been married.

—If she wants to leave me, she will receive a flat settlement of $185.50.

—As long as we are living together, I must provide my wife with detergents, mops, plastic garbage bags and a lawnmower.

—I also am obligated to pay for the veterinarian in case we have a dog.

—While we are married, my wife has custody of the children all day and most evenings. For this she is given the extra sum of $10 a week.

—If we have a fight, I must be the one to sleep on the couch in the living room.

—I must also give her the sum of $5 if I pay too much attention to another girl at a party.

These are more or less the financial details of our marriage contract, and the only reason I'm revealing them at this time is that our cleaning woman just quit, and I understand she's going to sell the terms to the National Enquirer. It would embarrass my wife something terrible if the marriage agreement ever became public.

The Prayer Amendment

By William F. Buckley Jr.

When in 1963 the Supreme Court suddenly overthrew an understanding which was twice fourscore and ten years old, namely that public schools typically began the day with a prayer, there was the nearest thing to universal uproar since Harry Truman fired Douglas MacArthur. Truman was sustained as, it now appears, the Supreme Court will be sustained.

It is difficult to find a non-ideologized scholar who seriously believes that the people who wrote the Bill of Rights intended to equate public prayer with the establishment of a religion; and, indeed, for a while it appeared as if the Supreme Court would choke on its secularist sophistry. Within hours of the decision, 49 out of 50 state governors pledged their support for a Constitutional Amendment which would reverse the decision (charity prevents me from identifying the 50th, though for those who want a hint, he all but ordered the public school teachers to open their recent sessions by praying for the passage of a 2½ billion dollar transportation bond issue).

So the weeks, and the months, and the years went by. Senator Dirksen championed the amendment, but Congressman Celler kept it bottled up in the House Judiciary Committee. Meanwhile, there were odd sounds from odd clerics here and there who made odd appearances before Congressional Committees in which they treated the First Amendment to the Constitution of the United States with manifestly greater reverence than they have treated the First Commandment as given to Moses. Sand of all sorts was sprinkled on the essential question so that before long any number of people began to believe that to urge the resumption of prayer in the public schools was tantamount to undermining the Constitution of the United States.

But then Representative Chalmers Wylie of Ohio decided to move directly. He petitioned to remove the proposed amendment from the cellar in which it had rested, and he got the signatures necessary to do so, so that the vote is in fact scheduled and, of course, it needs a two-thirds majority in order to qualify as a Constitutional Amendment.

Then what happened was the equivalent of the American Legion coming out against Douglas MacArthur and for Harry Truman. The Catholic bishops, no less, speaking through the United States Catholic Conference, declared themselves as OPPOSED to the amendment. Their reasoning is a sophist's delight. Listen.

The amendment says, very simply, "Nothing contained in this Constitution shall abridge the right of persons lawfully assembled in any public building supported in whole or in part through the expenditure of public funds to participate in non-denominational prayer."

Well, the bishops' representative said, arguing to lengths unheard of the principle INCLUSIO UNIVS EST EXCLUSIO ALTERIUS: if the Constitution AUTHORIZES NON-denominational prayer, then doesn't it indirectly FORBID denominational prayer? And if it does, doesn't that mean that you can't have a denominational prayer in any building which is in part supported by public funds? For instance, if a Catholic group rented the Hunter College Auditorium, doesn't it mean that the priest who pronounced the invocation would be forbidden from saying: "In the name of the Father, the Son and the Holy Ghost," because the Son is denominational, and the Holy Ghost is positively factionalist?

As if this weren't enough, the Jesuit gentleman who is in Congress and sits well to the left of the Speaker, complained that there is no such thing as a non-denominational prayer, so that the proposed amendment is really meaningless, and shouldn't be passed for that reason. The argument, presumably, says that to say the lines: "God bless this school, its faculty and its students" would be a "denominational" prayer, presumably because the Druids amongst us would insist that the prayer should be directed to the stars, rather than to God, who is a denominationalist.

It causes the mind to boggle. And it suggests an answer to the question: why is the Catholic Church progressively less influential? Why is it that when it speaks about abortion, two and one-half people listen to it? It is, surely, because its adulterated mission leaves it, as in the present situation where the fight is simply whether to confirm or resist the extirpation of religion from the public schools, fanning itself prissily about semantic and constitutional ambiguities, asking for lemon in its tea, rather than exerting itself to cause the name of God to be overheard by the younger generation. God help them, if it isn't asking too much.

DATELINE: HARRISBURG

Shapp's Month

By Richard Haratine

HARRISBURG — As the first autumn leaves began to hit the pavements around the public schools, on college campuses and in ghettos all over Pennsylvania, Milton Shapp seemed to view October as his month — freed of a year-long tax battle and assorted legislative grappling — for regrouping his philosophies.

To his own satisfaction, at least, the Governor had closed out September by dismissing patronage gripes from Democrat snipers in the 67 counties with a call to the colors. "The Democratic Party must be so structured that those of you on the grass roots have an organizational method of reporting the needs and concerns of your people through political channels to your leaders," he explained to the Democratic State committees.

"The leaders, in turn, must translate these needs into programs and then, through the organization, seek grass roots support for these programs. Simply stated, the party must be open to all our people."

In one fell swoop, there was something for the ladies, and for minority groups as the governor issued an edict promising to "insure the hiring of more" of these types.

There was some leaf raking for taxpayers, too, not final nor overly convincing, but there it was. "The recently enacted revenue program is not a green light for spending more money but a caution light for tightening the belt," Shapp said. "I hope, and my expectations are, there will not be a need for a new tax program in 1972-73. I will do everything possible to do that, within the limitations of the national economy. I hope to increase services without new taxes next year." Selah.

Nine months in office have, Shapp believes, given him some insights on the pork barrel.

"Too often, in the past, it has been the custom to take the previous year's budget and simply add automatic increases for each departmental program," Shapp explained to a public meeting of his cabinet during October. "No thought was given to a re-evaluation of the worth of each of these programs in itself. What was already funded was assumed to be necessary."

Like most taxpayers, Shapp also is exasperated with federal taxation. "The Federal government is too big," he told a meeting of the National Society of State Legislators. "It moves too slowly. It uses up too large a share of the tax dollar in administrative costs."

For a panel of newspaper editors, Shapp said he is "convinced that the people's confidence in government will be restored only to the extent that men in public life place themselves on the line in defense of the individual, and to the extent that the outmoded bureaucracy of government is streamlined and reformed."

"I STILL PREFER LITTLE OLD LADIES IN TENNIS SHOES."

Conversational Counselling And Compost

By Bernie Wingert, County Agent

I'm spending a lot of time just listening recently. In fact on Election Day I attended a session where the entire day was spent at a workshop on "The Art of Listening." And now that I've completed the course I do seem to be hearing better. I hear my wife announcing that it's time to go pick up the girls from choir practice on the first call. I hear the office secretary pleading for a more reasonable distribution of work from the Associate Agent, the Home Economist and from me. I hear how much work everyone else does around this establishment, and I have developed an empathy for each person. "To give empathy is to walk in the other person's track; to give sympathy is to hold his hand" . . . that's what I learned last Tuesday.

Here is an example of what empathy is not—The rather awkward farmer boy at his class prom finally got up nerve enough to ask a sultry young beauty for a dance. "I never dance with a child" said the pretty little snob. The farm boy looked her over critically and said, "Please forgive me; I didn't realize you were pregnant!" Come to think of it this is also what sympathy is not, either!

Well I learned even more about listening this week. "Effective listening means also that the listener is genuine with the speaker. He "gives back" what he hears as openly and directly as possible. Genuineness gives the speaker confidence that the feed-back he receives is real. It helps make what he hears back clear." This is what our workshop leaders told us. And I got to thinking, and wondering, now that the rest of the world is listening so hard these days to Mr. Chou and to Mr. Tito, and to Mr. Kosygin, if they too know the listening rules.

One time long ago I was listening very hard and heard that "a Communist borrows your pot to cook your goose in." And I heard too that "A nation's values are only as lasting as the ability of each generation to pass them on to the next." But my brain isn't really geared to International and National listening; I should only tune my ears to more pleasant things like band concerts at the Junior High School. So Thursday night I did just that very thing, and enjoyed the evening to the fullest.

I'm a great believer in waiting until Christmas time to get excited about buying gifts and decorating. However, I've just hung up the phone following an hour long conference call from Penn State. Talk about the art of listening!

One of the subjects discussed was the 4th Annual Pennsylvania Wine Conference which will be held December 3rd and 4th on the University Park Campus of Penn State. As with past conferences, this year's should appeal to both amateur and professional winemakers.

Anyway, to get back to the Christmas gift business, here's a different gift idea. A new book "Winemaking as a Hobby" published by The Pennsylvania State University College of Agriculture, might be just the thing for Uncle Jesse or Aunt Hattie. This book gives detailed information on the various procedures the hobbyist should follow in obtaining an excellent product. Some of the topics covered include grape species and varieties, wine types, equipment and chemicals, making wines, bottling, storing and aging, making fruit wines, chemical testing, and rules for serving. A special section is devoted to the amateur who is interested in the process of winemaking by recipe.

Order one now and you'll have plenty of time to read it yourself before you wrap it for old Santa to deliver to your Uncle. The entire fee is $2.50 plus a 6 percent sales tax. Make the check or money order payable to The Pennsylvania State University and send with your name and address to WINEMAKING, BOX 6000, UNIVERSITY PARK, PA. 16802.

THE COOK'S CORNER

Canned Pie Filling Is Wondrous Good

By NATALIE WILLIAMS

In these hurry-scurry days most cooks welcome shortcuts. Gone is the time Mom was home all day. Now, all too frequently, Mom and Pop both work, and sometimes one or the other is moonlighting to put the kids through college or keep up with the mortgage payments.

You can still serve beautiful meals by using some of the convenience foods and all the shortcuts you can come by to save time and effort. For heaven's sakes, don't just rely on TV dinners, even the ones that offer soup and a dessert. Some of them are very, very good — we do recommend Stouffer's and have found them delightful when we arrive home from work at 2:30 or 3 a.m. That's when you just want a small dish while you relax with a good book.

We think that most of the time, even if you're tired and haven't much time, you should serve meals with good old-fashioned goodness. So... let's take a can of pie filling and see what we can do with it. We'll specify again Thank You brand because we've always found it to be excellent.

Since pie filling automatically brings dessert to mind, we'll start with a variation on this theme. The firm's home economist has developed a recipe for Zip-Quick Fruit Crisp which she serves to her family of four frequently — four nights in a row once, using different fillings, and each time the family was as delighted as if it had been a different dessert. It takes only 2½ minutes to prepare, and you can't beat that for saving time in the kitchen.

Pour apple, cherry, blueberry, peach or blackberry pie filling into a 9-inch pie plate. Sprinkle 1 cup of yellow or white cake mix over the pie filling. Melt ½ stick (¼ cup) butter or margarine. Pour over all. Bake 30 min. in 400 oven. Spoon into serving dishes; serve warm or cold.

For variation.

—Serve crisp with pour cream, whipped cream, sour cream or ice cream.

—Use gingerbread or spice cake mix over peach, apple or pineapple filling.

—Orange cake mix over apple pie filling is an excellent combination.

—Coconut or chopped nuts added to the cake mix adds texture and flavor.

—Vary ice cream topping with fruit filling: coffee ice cream with peach, mint ice cream with apple, toasted almond ice cream with cherry, butter pecan ice cream with blueberry.

For added convenience and to save money, make and freeze your own pie and tart shells ahead of time.

Sift together 7 cups flour and 4 tsp salt; cut in 2½ cups shortening with pastry blender until crumbs are coarse and granular. Store in covered container in refrigerator, using as needed, or freeze shells if you're making them in quantity.

For single crust pie, use 1¼ cups pastry mix and 2 to 3 tsp. cold water. For double crust pie, 2½ cups pastry mix and 4 to 6 tbsp. cold water. Sprinkle one tsp. water at a time into flour mixture, tossing lightly with fork until dough forms a ball. Roll on lightly floured board or pastry cloth, rolling from center to outside to keep dough round.

If freezing, line pie plates of the same size with pastry and crimp edges; stack by placing a piece of waxed paper between each. Slip stack of plates into plastic bag; fasten securely and freeze. When ready to use remove one shell and defrost. Then prick well and bake or fill without pricking for open-faced fruit or other pie baked with filling. For 2-crust pies, do not crimp edges. Roll rounds of pastry to fit pie plate. Stack rounds using waxed paper between each. Place on piece of cardboard and slip into plastic bag for freezing. Remove one shell and one top and allow to defrost before assembling pie. Fill pastry shell with fruit pie filling; put top in place crimping edges and bake according to directions.

However, you don't have to always think of pie filling in terms of dessert. For instance, blueberry filling over a stack of wheatcakes, waffles or French toast adds a delightful variety to every day breakfast or brunch. Just changing filling varieties makes it seem like a brand new idea. Or you can serve apple, peach, blueberry or cherry filling over cornflakes or other dry cereal instead of sugar. Use with cream or milk. Over hot cereal fruit fillings also add special flavor flair.

And you can make marvelous sauces that are as pretty as they are tasty. Try Apple-O Sauce as an accompaniment to pork. Heat apple pie filling and thin slightly with orange or other fruit juice.

For Jiffy Raisin Sauce combine 1 can raisin pie filling with 1 cup orange juice and ½ tsp. ginger. Bring to a boil and serve warm or cold with ham.

For chicken or ham make a sauce using one can cherry pie filling, 1 cup orange juice, ¼ tsp. cinnamon, ¼ tsp. cloves; bring to a boil and serve warm or cold.

Back to the desserts now. Got some stale bread? Make Apple Brown Betty. Combine 2 cups dry bread cubes, ¼ cup brown sugar, ½ tsp. cinnamon, ¼ cup butter or margarine, melted. Alternate layers of apple pie filling and bread cube mixture ending with bread cubes. Pour 2 tbsp. orange juice over top. Bake at 375 for 40 min. Serve with pour cream or whipped cream.

And how about some filled cookies for the kids or friends who drop in for coffee? Make your favorite rolled or filled cookie dough. Roll to ¼ inch thickness and cut with 2-inch cutter. Place half on greased cookie sheet. Put spoonful of raisin or mincemeat pie filling in center of each circle; top with another circle of dough. Press edges together and prick top. Bake at 400 for 15 min. or until lightly browned.

Here's another quickie that's nice for this time of year. Jiffy Apple Cobbler. Pour apple pie filling into 9-inch pie plate. Dip 1 pkg. quick cinnamon pecan or orange rolls in melted butter or margarine and arrange over pie filling. Bake at 375 for 20 to 25 min. Spread frosting from package over hot rolls and serve warm with cream.

Want something a little fancier or more unusual? Try Pear Suzanne. Place scoops of chocolate ice cream in canned pear halves. Top with pineapple pie filling and chopped nuts.

Fancy up your pumpkin pie a little. After you remove it from the oven, sprinkle with crushed peanut brittle and cool. Serve with ice cream or whipped cream.

Try Raspberry Swirl, as pretty as can be. Soften vanilla ice cream. Swirl black raspberry filling with it and refreeze. Once you've sampled this quick-to-fix dessert, try it with cherry, peach or blackberry filling. Or for an equally colorful dessert, alternate layers of vanilla pudding and black raspberry filling in a footed goblet or parfait glass; vary with blueberry, cherry, apricot or strawberry filling. Make a Parfait Pie for fun.

Dissolve one 3-oz. pkg. fruit-flavored gelatin in 1 cup hot water. Stir in 1 can apricot, peach, pineapple filling with orange, pineapple or lemon gelatin or 1 can cherry, blueberry, blackberry or black-raspberry with cherry, raspberry or lemon gelatin. Cut 1 pint vanilla ice cream into 6 pieces; add to fruit mixture and stir until melted. Chill until mixture mounds slightly when stirred. Pour into 9-inch crumb or baked pastry shell.

Just to mention once again our little Fruit Gems which are the perfect ending to festive holiday dinners and so easy to prepare. Half fill baked tart shells with custard made of vanilla, lemon or coconut custard pudding mix. Top with cherry, strawberry, blueberry or other fruit filling. Serve with sour cream or whipped cream; garnish as desired.

Jack Benny, the Osmond Brothers, Debbie Reynolds and John Wayne join Bob Hope for a spoof of TV, movies and the nation's front page stories on The Bob Hope Special at 9:00 p.m. on Chs. 2, 6 and 12. Jack Benny plays an irresistible college senior; and Hope will appear as "Harry Kisser," a U. S. envoy to China who encounters complications undreamed of in a Peking hotel room.

"Once Upon a Time in the West," starring Henry Fonda and Claudia Cardinale, is an Italian tribute to Hollywood Westerns, to be seen on the ABC Sunday Night Movie at 9:00 p.m. on Ch. 7. This is a violent tale of vengeance, when the only law in the west was the gun.

Joan Van Ark guest-stars as Evelyn Borden, a famous model who becomes the victim of a rare facial paralysis and seeks Dr. Ted Stuart's help on The Bold Ones at 10:00 p.m. on Chs. 2, 6 and 12. Dr. Stuart refuses her pleas for surgery because his experiment is yet to be proved.

MONDAY

Academy Award Theater on Ch. 7 at 7:00 p.m. will feature "Shenandoah" starring James Stewart, Rosemary Forsyth and Doug McClure. This is a sentimental tale about a Virginia farmer's efforts to keep his family together and out of the Civil War.

A talented young actor, Denny Miller, stars in the sad story of a mountain man wrongly accused of a triple slaying on Gunsmoke at 8:00 p.m. on Chs. 4, 10 and 35. To make matters worse for himself, he has run off with the only survivor: a ten-year-old girl.

TUESDAY

Andy Griffith, Paul Lynde and Lucie Arnaz are special guests on The Glen Campbell Goodtime Hour at 7:30 p.m. on Chs. 4, 10 and 35. In a comedy highlight, Lynde is a schoolteacher trying to direct uncooperative youngsters in a Thanksgiving play. Glen sings "Misty," "If I Ruled the World," "Autumn Leaves" and others.

A thriller starring four great ladies of the screen, Helen Hayes, Myrna Loy, Mildred Natwick and Sylvia Sydney, entitled "Do Not Fold, Spindle or Mutilate" will be featured on the ABC Movie of the Week at 8:30 p.m. on Ch. 7. The four fabricate a blue-eyed blonde, send in an application to a dating service and attract a psychotic.

WEDNESDAY

Officer Reed (Kent McCord) is captured by two underworld killers as he and Officer Malloy (Martin Milner) are transporting a prisoner through Malibu Canyon in their police car on Adam-12 at 8:00 p.m. on Chs. 2, 6 and 12. The prisoner in the car has witnessed a killing.

Jo Van Fleet stars as an iron-willed lady determined to spend her life in a wheel chair on Medical Center at 9:00 p.m. on Chs. 4, 10 and 35. This self-imposed sentence masks a secret purpose.

THURSDAY

"The Longest Day," with an all-star cast from four countries will be featured on the Thursday Movie Special on Ch. 11 at 8:00 p.m. This is Darryl F. Zanuck's chronicle of D-Day, June 6, 1944. Americans appearing in the picture include John Wayne, Henry Fonda, Robert Mitchum, Robert Ryan, Robert Wagner and Paul Anka.

A kidnap drama, with Longstreet's secretary as the victim, will be featured on Longstreet on Ch. 7 at 9:00 p.m. Afraid to call the police, the blind investigator must find either Nikki or the mysterious item that her captor demands as ransom.

FRIDAY

Gene Raymond guest-stars as a confidence man who is charged with bilking wealthy widows and others out of large sums of money on The D.A. at 8:00 p.m. on Chs. 2, 6 and 12. His case is about to be dismissed when the key witness has a breakdown, but then someone reveals new evidence.

Lorne Greene, Julie Sommars and Murray Hamilton star in "The Harness," a drama dealing with a middle-aged farmer whose life becomes complicated by a free-spirited young woman, to be presented on NBC World Premiere Movie at 8:30 p.m. on Chs. 2, 6 and 12. The picture was suggested by John Steinbeck's story of the same name.

Your Horoscope

FOR SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1971

ARIES (March 21 to April 20) — You may not be able to complete as much as you desire, but do what you can, and do it well. You will not weaken your position as long as you put forth your best efforts.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21) — Get an early start if you would complete this day's assignments and collect the rewards. You are now assured of cooperation from those in a position to help.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21) — Accentuate the positive in your thinking if you would make the real advancement possible now. Routine activities may be happily supplemented by added interests.

CANCER (June 22 to July 22) — Usually you recognize opportunities and like to do something with them. This is a good day for grasping the best. But do make some time for relaxation.

LEO (July 23 to August 23) — You may run into some complex situations now. Analyze carefully; discriminate between fact and rumor. Don't reject a proffered idea before you have fully understood it, however.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23) — Work that enables you to use your creative abilities should bring you great pleasure now. Why not start a hobby along these lines? It could eventually prove remunerative.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23) — You may have to make some sacrifices now, but later you will be glad you did. Devote your special gifts to worthwhile causes and "many happy returns" will be yours.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 23) — Direct activities discerningly. Use that quick thinking mind of yours to help you out of possible unpleasant involvements, and don't let impulsive action get you into them.

SAGITTARIUS (November 24 to December 21) — Your talent for remembering and profiting by experience can be applied smartly now. Jupiter auspicious: New records can be set. But don't overtax yourself.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20) — You will probably be more interested in plans for the future than for weekend merry making. This is all to the good, since some fine opportunities are in the offing.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19) — Break your day down to definite essentials and eliminate the unimportant. Do not engage in untried projects where "dry runs" make them seem unfeasible.

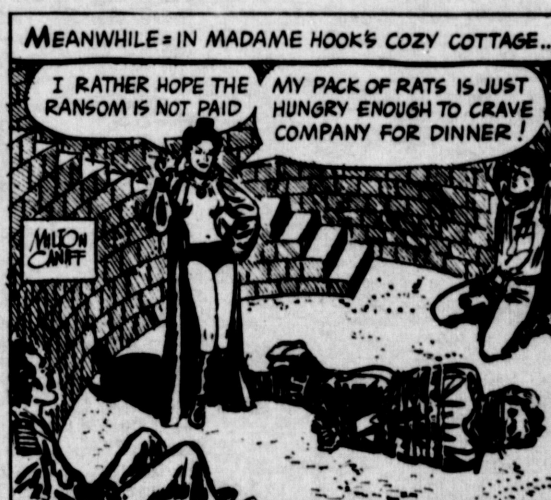

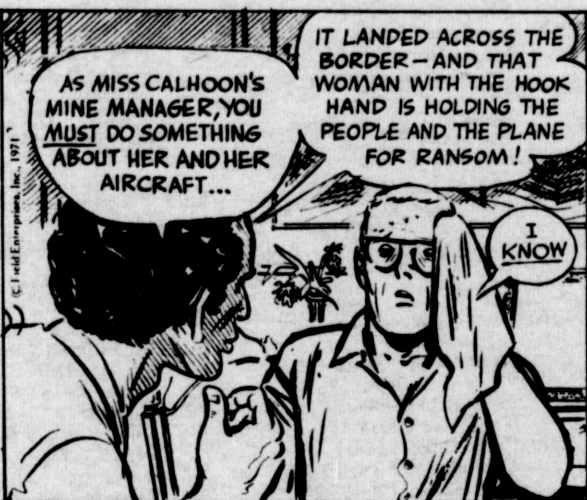

PISCES (February 20 to March 20) — Don't believe everything you hear now, but look for the truth and, when you find it, recognize it, respect it. Rumors may be spread deliberately. Good opportunities in the offing.

INFLAMED GUMS
Gingivitis (inflammation or irritation of the gums) is common in children. Of main concern, however, is the fact that it is the precursor of periodontal disease—the most frequent cause of tooth loss in adults. In other words, if allowed to smolder, gingivitis has more serious repercussions as the years pass. Luckily, this preventable disease is treatable.

Gingivitis is caused by poor oral hygiene that allows local irritants to accumulate on the teeth. Microorganisms in the saliva play an important role; when they colonize on the teeth, they form dental plaque. Plaque is a soft mass of bacteria, cellular debris, sticky sugars (dextran) and proteins. It adheres to the teeth and can only be detached via mechanical cleansing. Plaque is a living substance and also capable of causing dental caries.

Dental plaque also encourages the formation of hard, calcified calculus that irritates the gums. Material alba is another common accumulant. It is a yellow or gray-white pabulum-like mass, composed mainly of bacteria, that forms along the gum borders.

The wall of the gums is attached to each tooth. When gingivitis develops, the gums tend to separate from the roots, forming pockets. This is painless and noncontagious. When gingival inflammation is chronic, the gums develop a bluish-red puffiness with a shiny surface that pits on pressure. Bleeding may occur.

Severe gingivitis is noted occasionally during puberty, pregnancy, nutritional deficiencies, leukemia and diabetes. It is due to increased irritability of the gingiva.

Gingivitis is a reversible condition provided it is treated before it spreads to the tissues that support the teeth. Treatment consists mainly of local dental procedures that remove the irritants (plaque) and correcting improper tooth contacts. Antibiotics may also be needed. Toothbrushing supplemented by other cleansing aids, such as dental floss, interdental cleansers and pulsating water irrigation are most helpful.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

PROTECTION FROM VIRUSES

D. D. writes: Can viral infections be prevented?

REPLY

Some can. For example, polio, measles and yellow fever can be prevented. Hepatitis may be prevented temporarily with gamma globulin, and the flu vaccine protects against certain strains of the causative virus.

We're close to a cure for leukemia.

It's almost too good to believe. A whole crop of kids who are alive and well 5 years or more after getting a new kind of drug treatment for leukemia. And after 5 years, cancer researchers begin to hesitatingly, hopefully, talk of a permanent "cure."

Work has been going on feverishly ever since this kind of therapy was started in 1964. And each year, the children who get leukemia have a far better chance of cure than those of the year before.

The American Cancer Society plays a vital part in this exciting work. So, when our volunteer comes to your door this month, be generous. Especially if you have children. Or grandchildren.

SATURDAY

Edwin Newman's guest on Speaking Freely at 6:00 p.m. is lawyer-mediator Theodore Kheel, one of the leading experts on U.S. labor relations. Topics discussed include the state of collective bargaining today and the art of negotiating.

At 7:00 p.m. Masterpiece Theatre will present "Jude the Obscure: To Aldbrickham." Jude's ex-wife Arabella appears and asks Jude to come to her lodgings so that she may tell him a secret -- that he has a son, Little Jude, who was born in Australia. Sue prevents Jude from meeting Arabella, but agrees to take the child.

The Great American Dream Machine at 8:00 p.m. will present regulars Marshall Efron, Andrew Rooney, and Robert Townsend. He gives satirical looks at a variety of topics for "hip" Americans.

Hollywood Television Theatre at 10:00 p.m. will feature "Beginning to End: An Anthology of the Works of Samuel Beckett." Irish actor Jack MacGowan recites the works of Beckett.

SUNDAY

At 7:00 p.m. Civilization will present "Protest and Communication." Sir Kenneth Clark views Western culture from the German Reformation to Elizabethan England and notes the development of printing which spread the writing of Luther, Erasmus and Montaigne to a wider audience.

At 9:00 p.m. Masterpiece Theatre will present the final episode of "Jude the Obscure." In this episode, Jude and Sue return to Christminster with Little Jude and the two younger children, but when their landlord finds out they are not married, he evicts them. Little Jude then hangs his brother, his sister and himself; Sue, who is pregnant, miscarries and leaves Jude. Jude, now seriously ill, remarries Arabella. He pays one final visit to Sue and then dies all alone.

The premiere of a new music series Chicago Sounds debuts at 10:00 p.m. This features music from the night clubs and concert halls of one of America's biggest entertainment cities. Featured tonight are blues and jazz singer-pianist Kim Martell and her trio and Jennifer from Los Angeles.

The French Chef at 6:30 p.m. will present hints on how to buy, store, trim, boil, steam, serve and eat "the artichoke."

This week PBS Special of the Week at 8:00 p.m. will introduce Roy Buchanan. In this concert-documentary, young rock guitarist Roy Buchanan is seen returning home to the poverty of Pixley, Cal. for the first time in 12 years. He also performs with country-western musician, Merle Haggard.

"Eleanor and Franklin," a biography of the Roosevelts by Joseph P. Lash will be featured on Book Beat at 9:30 p.m.

TUESDAY

"What is Work?" will be featured on All About Welfare at 7:30 p.m. This program examines the diminishing importance of work as we know it today and the reasons why many young people are turning away from traditional work.

Water shortages in mining areas, highlighting Nicktown in Cambria County, will be seen on It Takes All Kinds at 9:30 p.m.

At 10:30 p.m., Black Journal will present "Blackonomics." Three black economists discuss the wage-price freeze and the impact on blacks of economic racism.

WEDNESDAY

4-H Photo Fun Club will be seen at 6:30 p.m. This is the first in a series designed for youngsters, aged nine through twelve, on how to use a camera and take good photographs.

The Great American Dream Machine at 9:00 p.m. will turn the spotlight on the American small town, featuring the town of Durango, Colorado. The program will feature interviews with the local citizens and visits to local events, such as rodeos and cattle auctions.

THURSDAY

The French Chef at 7:30 p.m. will feature "Tartes aux Fruits." This tells how to tackle fruit tarts and make pastry cream.

"Enemies" by Arkady Leokum will be presented on Hollywood Television Theatre at 9:00 p.m. This is a comedy about a customer who has come to the same restaurant for five years, mainly to make the waiter's life miserable. Then the tables are turned.

FRIDAY

May, Bull and their friends get into a heated discussion about the generation gap on Our Street at 9:30 p.m.

REHEARSE DANCE NUMBER

Barbara Larson and Bob Seiden rehearse a dance number for "Fiddler on the Roof," the first Warren Players' production of the 1971-72 season. The play is scheduled for November 12 and 13 at Beaty Auditorium,

Players Present 'Fiddler On The Roof' Next Week

"Fiddler on the Roof", the upcoming Warren Players musical production, is, like most musicals, a love story. In fact it is several love stories -- each tied together with the overriding love of a man for his family, his traditions and his homeland.

Throughout the play Tevye, the father of five daughters, learns that he must concede some things he loves so that others can continue to survive.

He loves his oldest daughter Tzeitel enough to realize she will never be happy with Lazar Wolf, the husband picked for her by the matchmaker, Yente. He abridges his tradition enough to let Tzeitel marry the poor tailor Motel, her childhood sweetheart.

He also overrules his love for tradition when another daughter, Hodel, marries the student Perchik -- even though he has been condemned to Siberia for anti-Czarist activity.

He turns the tables, however, on a third daughter, Chava, who decides to marry a non-Jew, Fyedka. This time Tevye decides his traditions cannot be compromised so he disowns his daughter.

Tevye, played by Andy Yurick, finds in the end that he is faced with the loss of his homeland. By edict of the Czar all Jews are to be pushed out of the country.

Despite all his efforts to maintain traditions his world is constantly changing.

By the last scene Tevye and his family is preparing to move on, to America.

The roles of each of the characters involved in the romances of Tevye's daughters are demanding and have been filled with experienced actors.

Lazar Wolf, the butcher that is promised Tzeitel's hand by the matchmaker only to lose it, is played by Dick Andersen, a Warren Campus professor and veteran stage performer. He starred last season in "The Pleasure of His Company" and has pleased earlier playgoers with his portrayals of Falstaff in "Merry Wives of Windsor", Marryin' Sam in "Lil' Abner" and the Devil in "Damn Yankees."

Motel, the poor tailor that eventually marries Tzeitel, is played by Joe Donick. Although only 23, he lists nearly 30 plays as his dramatic experience. Donick has appeared locally at the Plowright Playhouse in "Fantasticks", "Come Back Little Sheba" and "Tartuffe." He has also been a member of the Gannon, Lycoming and Edinboro college drama groups.

During 1969 and 1971 he was with the Edinboro State College Summer Theatre organization.

Bob Seiden, radio newsman, will play Perchik the student. Last season he directed "Rashoman" and has appeared on stage in "Lion In Winter," several seasons back. A native Canadian and former resident of Bermuda, Seiden has appeared in productions in both places.

Daniel W. Otterbein, who appeared last season in "The Pleasure of his Company," will portray Fyedka in "Fiddler." He has considerable musical experience, having worked as a professional folk singer.

The matchmaker is played by Mickey Conroy, who has appeared in the past as a member of the chorus in "Finians Rainbow."

Directed by John Check and produced by Alice Yurick, "Fiddler" is scheduled for November 12 and 13 in Beaty Auditorium. Single show tickets are now on sale at the B and B Smoke Shop and Chiodo's Pharmacy for $2.50. Season memberships, good for four performances, can also be purchased for $6.50 general admission and $8 reserved.

Julius Thorns Attend New York Play Opening

By BETTY RICE

Mr. and Mrs. Julius L. Thorn of North Warren had occasion to rub elbows with a number of celebrities at famed Sardi's in New York City on Sunday, Oct. 31.

The local couple attended the opening at the Imperial Theatre of "On The Town," a revival of a famous wartime musical comedy. They were there through an invitation from their son, George Thorn, who just happens to be the show's general manager.

George is a good friend of Ron Field, who directed and choreographed "On The Town." The two, it is reported, were having dinner together when Field announced he'd like to do the show and was encouraged by Thorn. Following its opening the production drew excellent reviews in most New York publications and from TV critics. Word has it tickets are already being sold for New Year's Eve.

In describing many of the theatre celebrities who turned out for the premiere performance, Earl Wilson in his "It Happened One Night" column, said they were all remembering back to 1944 when Nancy Walker, Betty Comden and Sono Osato were the big stars, when Glenn Miller was missing over the Channel, and Joan Barry was suing Charlie Chaplin, and Humphrey Bogart was just beginning to discover he was in love with Lauren Bacall.

Lauren Bacall was escorted to the opening by Ron Field. When "On The Town" was presented 27 years ago, the New York audience saw the curtain go up on a show written by and starring some unknowns named Betty Comden and Adolph Green. The music was by Leonard Bernstein, who was making his first foray into the theater. Jerome Robbins, 23, was choreographer.

Field in discussing why he decided to do "On The Town," noted there is a wave of nostalgia going on now and he had a hunch that theater audiences would really love seeing the "crazy, naive, simple and fun way we lived in the forties. When a country is in unrest as we are now is when nostalgia becomes popular. And the sad fact is that the forties was the last decade where people all seemed to be united and having a great time. We were, of course, involved in a war, but it was a noble war and everyone knew WE were the good guys and THEY were the bad."

The story has to do with the adventures of three young sailors on shore leave in tumultuous Manhattan and stars Phyllis Newman, Bernadette Peters and Ron Husmann.

At Sardi's after the show, the Julius Thorns were in the company of Mayor Lindsay, Anne Baxter, Frank Sinatra, Hal Prince, the Sidney Lumets and the Eli Wallachs, in addition to a number of other famous theater personalities. They described the evening as an exciting experience.

Newcomers Club Welcomes New Warren Residents

CONEWANGO CLIPPERS ENTERTAIN NEWCOMERS

Members of the Welcome Wagon Newcomers' Club were entertained Thursday evening by the Conewango Clippers. The group, under the direction of Steve Cruickshank, is well known for its harmony in barbershop music. They are now recruiting new members and invite interested men to join them on Monday evenings at the First Lutheran Church.

Preceding the performance, a short business meeting was conducted. The annual Christmas Dance is to be held December 11 in the Knights of Columbus Hall with dancing from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Interested members are asked to contact board members for tickets and further details.

Ten new Red Ribboners were introduced and welcomed to Warren. They were Gayle Kinney, Mrs. Donald Russell, Mrs. Kenneth Wolfe, Mrs. Michael Harriman, Mrs. John Haller, Mrs. Thomas Schultz, Mrs. Arnold Heath, Mrs. David Culbertson, Mrs. John Downey, and Mrs. Anthony LaPinto.

Hostesses for the evening were Rita Mancuso and Barb Flickinger who decorated the dessert tables with fall arrangements of leaves, gourds and Indian corn.

Newcomers' next meeting is to be held December 2 at 7:45 p.m. in Fellowship Hall of the First Presbyterian Church. Mrs. James Reninger and Mrs. Herbert Wadsworth are to conduct the club's annual Christmas Auction.

Former Warren Girl Weds In Ohio

Cynthia Kifer, daughter of Mrs. Helen J. Kifer, a former Warren resident now residing at 512 Edith Ave., Findlay, Ohio, was married to Stephen Powers Ashton, 177 N. Professor st., Oberlin, Ohio, October 23, 1971.

The bride is also the daughter of the late Cecil R. Kifer.

The Rev. Thomas R. Ashton, pastor of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Medina, Ohio officiated at the ceremony. Rev. Ashton is the father of the bridegroom.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her brother, Thomas R. Kifer. She wore a gown of ivory silk-faced peau de soie, detailed with pearled reembrodered lace. Alencon lace accented the yoke, scalloped hemline and wateau chapel length train.

A pearled lace headpiece secured the elbow length silk illusion veil. She carried a cascade arrangement of orange roses, chrysanthemums, woodroses, and baby's breath tied with ivory streamers.

Mrs. Robert L. Berger, Findlay, Ohio, was her sister's matron of honor. The maid of honor was Wilma Hamilton, Avon Lake, Ohio. Bridesmaids were Teresa Meatz, Xenia, Ohio; Mrs. George Mack, Dayton, Ohio, sister of the bridegroom, and Phyllis Bailey, Lorain, Ohio. The junior bridesmaid was Beth Berger and the flower girl was Amy Berger, Findlay, Ohio, both nieces of the bride.

Thomas R. Ashton, Jr., Arlington, Va. was best man for his brother. Ushers were George Mack, Dayton, Ohio; John Tallman, Findlay, Ohio; Donn Jacobs, Oberlin, Ohio; and Jeff Hammond, Kent, Ohio.

A reception for the couple was held after the ceremony at the Holiday Inn.

The couple is now at home at 177 N. Professor st., Oberlin, Ohio.

The bride is a 1971 graduate of Miami University, where she was affiliated with Sigma Kappa Sorority. The bridegroom is a senior at Oberlin College, Oberlin, Ohio.

Church Youth On Chicago Trip

A weekend trip to North Park College of Chicago is being held for seven young people of the Bethlehem Covenant Church, according to the minister, Rev. Paul Webster.

Rev. and Mrs. Webster and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Samuelson are acting as counselors and drivers.

The weekend is to include a complete tour of the college campus, meeting many of the college faculty and students, and watching the North Park College football team play the Green Bay football team.

Also included in the weekend is a visit to the Denominational Headquarters of the Evangelical Covenant Church of America and a visit through the Covenant Swedish Hospital.

The trip began at 2 a.m. Friday, and the group is expected to return late Sunday night. Students involved include Cathy Mack, Judy Fredrickson, Valerie Salisbury, Linda Johnson, Joey Wilks, Terry Reynolds and Larry Johnson. The Covenant Hi League worked on several projects to earn the money for the trip.

The students and counselors are staying at the college student center motel.

DEAR HELOISE:

When doing hand sewing the thread won't jumble or twist into knots if you remember to use the thread as it comes from the spool.

Thread is twisted from left to right so when doing overhand stitching you are apt to untwist it while sewing.

This Fruit

... looks like an apple from a good tree. God used this parable to teach an authoritative lesson of truth to some who were calling, "Lord, Lord." He answered, saying, "Not everyone that calls me Lord, shall get to heaven." He spoke plainly and used small words, and said, "Only those who bear good fruit will make it." See this tree loaded with fine fruit! Few of us stop to ponder its history. But every orchard expert knows well every sound tree. The good fruit is detectable from way off. The lesson is clear. Goodness all the way to the core is the kind of fruit God wants. Soundness of heart, purity of mind and integrity of character are essential if one's fruit is to please God. No one gathers grapes from thorns, or figs from thistles. Read the Sermon on the Mount; Meditate on I Corinthians; Hear what He says in Romans 8 and 12. Here one will find soil where good trees may grow and from which good fruit may be gathered.

The First Snowfall

The morning snowfall on November 4th put a layer of white fluff on the orange marigolds and vari-colored zinnias in my garden. It immobilized, with its cold breath, a Monarch butterfly that clung to the stem of a zinnia. It covered the green lawn with a paper-thin blanket of white that "Like Snow upon the Desert's dusty Face,

Lighting a little hour or two—
is gone."

Ephemeral as was this first snowfall, it posed a clear warning that other snows would follow in good season, and winter was already loitering in the wings impatient to make a grand entrance on the stage.

The first snowfall causes mixed emotions among the populace. The kids are jubilant at first, and then crest fallen when the snow disappears like a burst bubble. The human "grasshoppers" are jarred momentarily. They begin to think earnestly about installing the storm windows, and looking for bargains in snow tires. But the sun comes out, the snow vanishes like a mirage on the desert skyline, and they sink back into complacency. They take comfort in the prophecy of the woolly bear caterpillars, that we will have a mild winter.

Oldsters, whose blood courses slowly through hardening arteries, look with mild irritation on the first snowfall and read the winter's chill that will accompany the real thing — when buffeting winds will rattle window panes as the driven snow seeks entrance wherever the house's protective armor is worn thin.

Snowmobilers, skiers, and other winter sport enthusiasts greet the first snowfall as a harbinger of better things to come. They look forward to an old-fashioned winter with deep snows, starry nights, blue skies, and crisp near-zero weather. As long ago as the 17th century, George Herbert prophesized what most farmers in the snow belt accept today when he wrote, "A snow year, a rich year." It took the canny New England farmers to label snow "the poor man's fertilizer."

In the West, the annual accumulation of heavy snows in the mountains is regarded as "white gold" by the farmers who irrigate their desert land from snow melt from the snow pack in the distant mountains. From snow course measurements in the high country, where average snow depth and water content — derived from weight of snow cores — are made, runoff can be predicted with considerable accuracy. From this information, the desert farmers can plan the amount of acreage to plant and the kinds of crops to sow. If the predicted runoff from the winter's snow pack will be light, in a particular year, the farmers restrict the acreage planted, and may switch to crops that are less water-demanding.

Outdoor recreation is no longer seasonal, and snow is playing an increasingly important role in it. Throughout the snow belt, from coast to coast, winter sports have taken on a new dimension. And some forms, such as snowmobiling, have created problems for landowners, game managers, and foresters.

Ski resorts, from New England to northern California, have brought a measure of prosperity to isolated communities which formerly were dependant upon a short summer tourist season. Then a $35 million resort, with countless ski lifts, heated swimming pools, a thousand-room hotel, smart shops, and apartments was proposed near Mineral King village, in California's High Sierras. The state agreed to build a $25 million "expressway" to make the area accessible to thousands of winter visitors.

Wilderness preservationists threw down the gauntlet, and went to battle, when they learned of the proposal. A bitter controversy has raged since then. There is no dearth of snow in Mineral King. It once achieved a world's record when 122 inches of snow fell in just 24 hours. What the wilderness advocates fear is that the sheer magnitude of the proposed resort would result in overdevelopment, and much of the charm of this little "Shangra La" in the High Sierras would be lost.
